School Life

In his first appearance before the student body, Dr. Farrar swears in Steve Sampson.

Group faculty consultations were held frequently to acquaint the staff with some of Dr. Farrar's new ideas.

New Principal Favors Privilege, Responsibility

Students entering Ames High last fall found they were "in a completely different ball game," to quote the new principal's favorite remark. Exactly how it was different was hard to pinpoint. Students who had feared a dress code had relaxed by Homecoming and cheerfully donned slacks, pantskirts, bluejeans, even beads. But a new atmosphere was apparent and big changes were talked about for 1970-71, such as an eight-period day, more course offerings, emphasis on individualized study.

Dr. Ralph L. Farrar, 35, came to Ames from Westside High School in Omaha, where he served as vice-principal for nine years. He is a member of Phi Delta Kappa and numerous educational groups.

"School should be a framework of society where boundaries are set with the emphasis on privilege with responsibility," Dr. Farrar summed up his educational philosophy. "The principal's job is to create an environment where the best in teachers and pupils is brought out."

Fine Arts Building To Be Ready Fall '71

Under the direction of Mr. Walter Hetzel, superintendent of schools, the Ames School Board has worked to improve the facilities of Ames High.

When the Spirit went to press, the new fine arts building was expected to be completed for use in 1971. The building will house a 600-seat auditorium besides all art, humanities, drama, vocal music, band and orchestra classes.

Included in the music department is a sound control room. It will be centrally located between the three different music areas. Another important feature will be the special sculpture and jewelry areas for the art department.

Local officials and a traffic expert redesigned the parking lot traffic pattern this year, resulting in a single entrance to the high school and angle parking.

Future plans to help remedy the congestion of traffic include a faculty parking lot behind the school and a second entrance into the parking lot.

Curriculum changes were also under consideration this year. A student survey was given during the winter to determine what new electives were wanted.

New Driver Ed Set Up Called 'Best in State'

This year Ames High acquired the most extensive and up-to-date drivers' education program in the state, according to Mr. Posegate, one of two new teachers for the course. The program had four divisions. The first of these was classroom study; students attended a two-hour Saturday morning session which consisted of movies, lectures, discussions, and tests over the text. They spent a total of 36 hours in the classroom in this one-semester course. Another phase was reaction to driving situations in the school's new simulator. The simulator, financed by a federal grant, was used by each student for 12 hours during the course. The driving range also was made possible by a federal grant and the driver's education staff felt that it was one of the best in the United States. On the range, students practiced skills that they would find most difficult in driving on the street. The blossoming drivers put these skills to use in the last phase of the program: they drove on the street with their instructors. Each student had four hours of driving on the street. Joining Mr. Posegate on the teaching staff were Mr. MacBride and Mr. Heiberger.

Games, Computer Spark Social Studies, Math

Simulated stock market, convention, Congress, and election games were added to enliven social studies classes this year. Guests spoke to large groups on law and black power. American History classes made contemporary magazines as they would have appeared in colonial times. A unit on peacekeeping for the 1970's was included in World History. The department discussed adding two electives for students next year: anthropology and psychology.

The new computer, shared by math and science classes, was made available for individual use after school. Calculus students developed ideas from books and presented them to the class. Students also participated in class leadership by using the overhead projector. A new book presented a different approach to Trigonometry.

Physics A Replaces Physical Science

Definite changes were apparent in the structure of the Science Department for the 1969-70 school year. Last year's Physical Science course was changed to Physics A. This meant that a general physics background could be obtained without the detail involved in Physics B. Science subjects offered besides Physics A and Physics B were Biology, Chemistry A and Chemistry B.

Other additions to the Science Department consisted of the completion of a gateway and a system of posts to mark off and protect the Ames High Native Prairie. Considerable use was made of the new computer extension system in solving equations and supplying data.

New Teachers Expand Home Ec, Shop

New test equipment and a new teacher expanded the shop facilities this year. Mr. Herrig replaced Mr. Faas, who moved to the vocational education department. Students could take Auto Mechanics, Drafting, Electronics, Metal Shop, and Woodworking. With the growing number of girls in drafting, there was talk of opening a class for girls in auto mechanics.

The fact that students could elect any home-making course any semester of their high school career allowed them to study their varied interests in depth. Mrs. Schepers, a new teacher, and Mrs. Reeves were the instructors.

125 Seniors Take Part In On-Job Training

About 125 seniors elected vocational education classes this year. There were two categories: Co-op, which coordinated on-the-job training with related class instruction in the fields of office education, distributive education, and trade and industrial training, and Work Experience, made up of nurses' training and cadet teaching. Sixty-seven students enrolled in the full-year Co-op courses; about sixty took part in the one-semester Work Experience.

The purpose of all of these senior courses was to let students learn by doing. DE provided business training with special emphasis on selling and management. Skills in the secretarial fields were practiced by girls in OE while trade and industrial training was designed to give students a good foundation in a particular vocation. Nurses training and cadet teaching were oriented more toward exposing students to the rewarding and taxing features of those occupations.

Many of the seniors participating in vocational education belonged to related clubs. DE students were in DECA, the OE girls belonged to OEA, and the T&I students were members of VICA.

Language Classes Use New Teaching Aids

New methods were employed this year to teach beginning French, German and Spanish students. They included the wide use of visual aids, tapes and movies.

Also for the first time in the high school's history, fourth-year French and Spanish classes were held. Future plans include fifth-year classes in approximately four years.

Under the direction of a new Latin teacher, Mrs. Lybeck, students learned the traditional grammar.

When the Spirit went to press, French students had tentative plans to go to France during spring vacation. Fourth-year French students also went to Dubuque to see the play "Antigone."

Fourth-year Spanish students presented a three-act play. The game Prost was a frequent vocabulary-improving activity of German students.

English Adds Unit, 6 Teachers, Chairman

Seven new teachers were added to the English Department this year. Mr. Forssman, the new head of the department, said that English courses offered this year attempted to integrate language, literature, and composition.

A new feature of sophomore English was a six-week unit of combined drama and speech which involved both large and small groups. The small groups dealt in interpretation, individual study, writing of plays and dialogues, and acting. At the end of the unit, a pamphlet containing student writing was published.

Juniors concentrated on The Scarlet Letter, The Crucible, and Huck Finn. Teaching by students was emphasized to enable students to relate their views in American Literature.

Seniors could elect two semesters of English 12 or Advanced Standing. One semester of English Literature, World Literature, and Journalism also were offered. Developmental Reading was an elective offered to all students.

As part of the combined drama and speech unit, sophomores did a modernization of Aristophanes' The Frogs in class.

Drama, Journalism Give Practical Experience

Instant replays via the new audio-video tape machine let students watch themselves act this year. Films from early motion picture days also were shown to give students an insight into cinema history.

Applied Journalism classes, taught by Mrs. Bauske, published a letter from the administration to parents advising them of changes in the curriculum, new courses, and the calendar of the school year. This new addition to Journalism classes was published four times during the school year. The Web, published weekly in the Ames Tribune, continued to be a regular project of the first and second period Journalism classes, which alternated the job of gathering, writing, and editing the news. Scratch Pad, a collection of poems and stories by English students, was published by the Honors American Literature class. Juniors and seniors on the Spirit staff gained experience in journalism, photography, and business.

Field Trips Augment Art, Humanities

Ceramics, jewelry making, and weaving were just some of the interesting skills art students mastered. Miss Gugel's class experimented in welding sculptures out of a computer. Mrs. Schneider helped students develop their talents in painting, sketching, and working with clay. Art students visited exhibits at the Octagon and the Memorial Union.

Mr. Wiser expanded the Humanities studies to include the Far East, Middle East, and the Renaissance in depth. Students learned how these reflect on modern art and our culture. Foreign students from the university spoke about customs in their native countries and compared them with customs in the United States.

Early in the fall about forty Art and Humanities students spent a weekend in Minneapolis touring the museums and art exhibits.

Ursula Ruedenberg and Jane Sassaman found they could make sculptures out of almost anything, including old engine parts.

Library, Guidance Team To Help Students

This year much emphasis was put on individual study and more responsibility on the students. The library was well prepared to help students in their search for materials and information. In addition to the regular librarians, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Huffer, there were two parttime assistants, Miss Gray and Mr. Brown. Approximately 3,060 new books, magazine subscriptions, records, film strips, paperbacks, record players, and viewers were received. More carts are now available enabling the library to go to the classrooms when classes cannot go to the library.

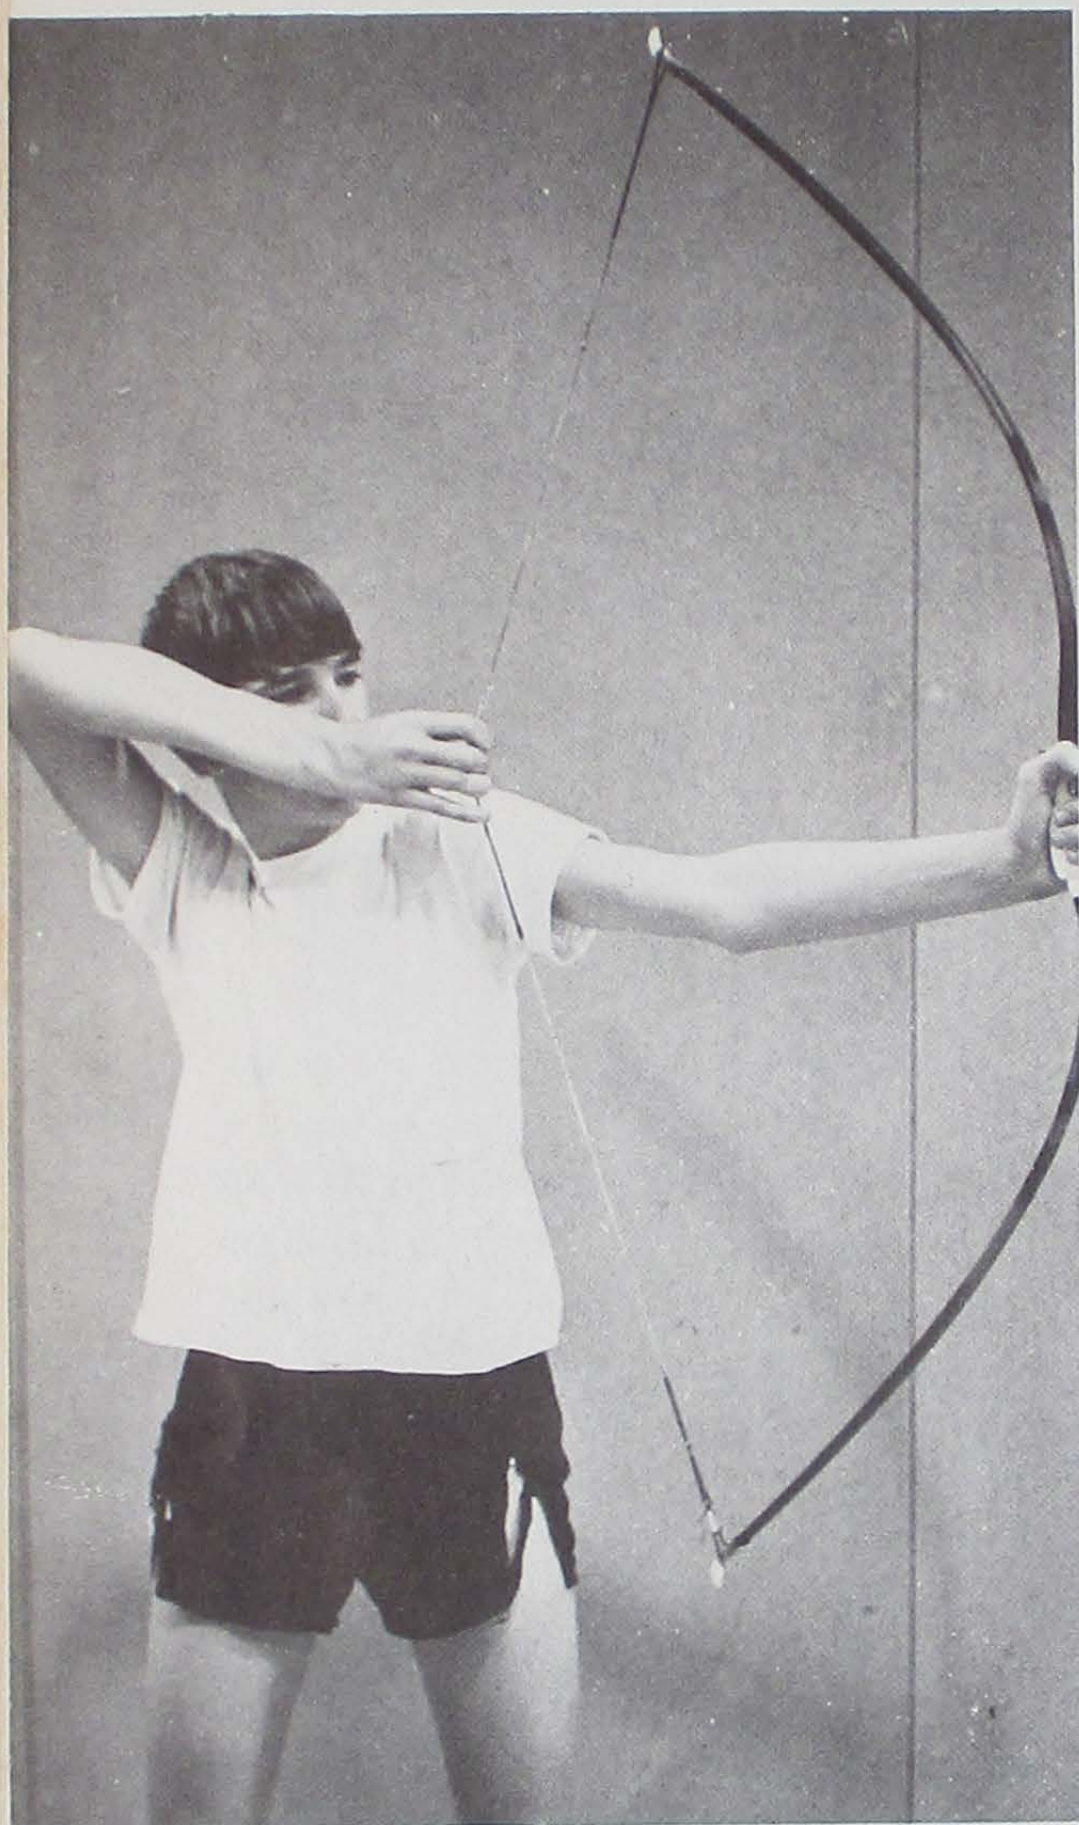

The guidance department, headed by Mrs. Whitney, was concerned with students' plans for the future as well as their progress in school. The college catalog room was updated and enlarged. Career Day was held in November to help students with vocational interests and counseling sessions were frequently held to help in making decisions and adjustments. Inventory of the student's work, information on him, counseling and placement were all incorporated into guidance to assist students in planning their future.

Many Events Mark Homecoming '69

Seniors alone nominated queen candidates for Homecoming '69. This marked the first time the candidates were not nominated by the entire student body and was the beginning of a rapid succession of Homecoming events.

Decoration of the lobby by Pep Club girls added color and an atmosphere of excitement to the school. Both football and fall track boys enjoyed candy and decorations placed in their lockers by Pep Club members while football boys were treated to still more goodies at lunch. After school a large caravan formed and proceeded to the band shell for a pep rally. Two skits were put on by Pep Club girls following special guest speaker Mike Bliss. Homeroom door decorations were awarded, with homeroom 107 receiving first prize. Queen Mary Lou Williams was crowned after attendants Bonnie Sandve and Becky Seim were announced. Then came the traditional snake dance down Main Street.

The next night the Little Cyclones were defeated in a tough game against West Waterloo. Half-time was highlighted when the Queen, her attendants, and their escorts were presented to the crowd. Later that night the "Library" entertained at the dance. All these events proved true the theme "Happiness is Homecoming '69."

Threatening to fall off the wall if AHS doesn't whomp 'em are Kathy Tuttle, Lori Carter, and Kathy Baker.

'Frostfire' Is Theme For Christmas Formal

Excitement and anticipation of the Christmas Formal was in the air as couples arrived at their various cocktail parties. Later sophomores, juniors and seniors combined in the Union's Sun Room decorated with large gold stars and flocked trees supporting the theme, "Frostfire." Dancing couples were entertained by the Traidmarx.

During the intermission, Jeff Shelton, the master of ceremonies, announced the king and queen and their attendants. Jim Bartruff recited "Alice's Restaurant" and Joel Wilcox sang selections and played his guitar. Snow prevented the band from getting to the after-party at the Cellar so couples viewed W. C. A pleasant experience for Steve Sampson, master of ceremonies, is crowning the Spirit Sweetheart, Sue Kaldor.

Events Brighten Year; Sue Kaldor Spirit Queen

February's doldrums were brightened by a novel experiment in human relations and the traditional celebration of Spirit Week.

On Friday 13 Sue Kaldor was elected Spirit Sweetheart by the student body from a slate of 13 girls nominated by the seniors. She was crowned at the halftime of the East Waterloo basketball game by Steve Sampson, master of ceremonies. Kris Link was first attendant and Penny Crom second attendant.

To mark Brotherhood Week, the Student Council proclaimed "Blonde Week" February 16-19. Blondes and redheads were declared inferior and restricted to certain restrooms, drinking fountains, and areas of the cafeteria. Some teachers also reseated their classes or practiced other forms of discrimination.

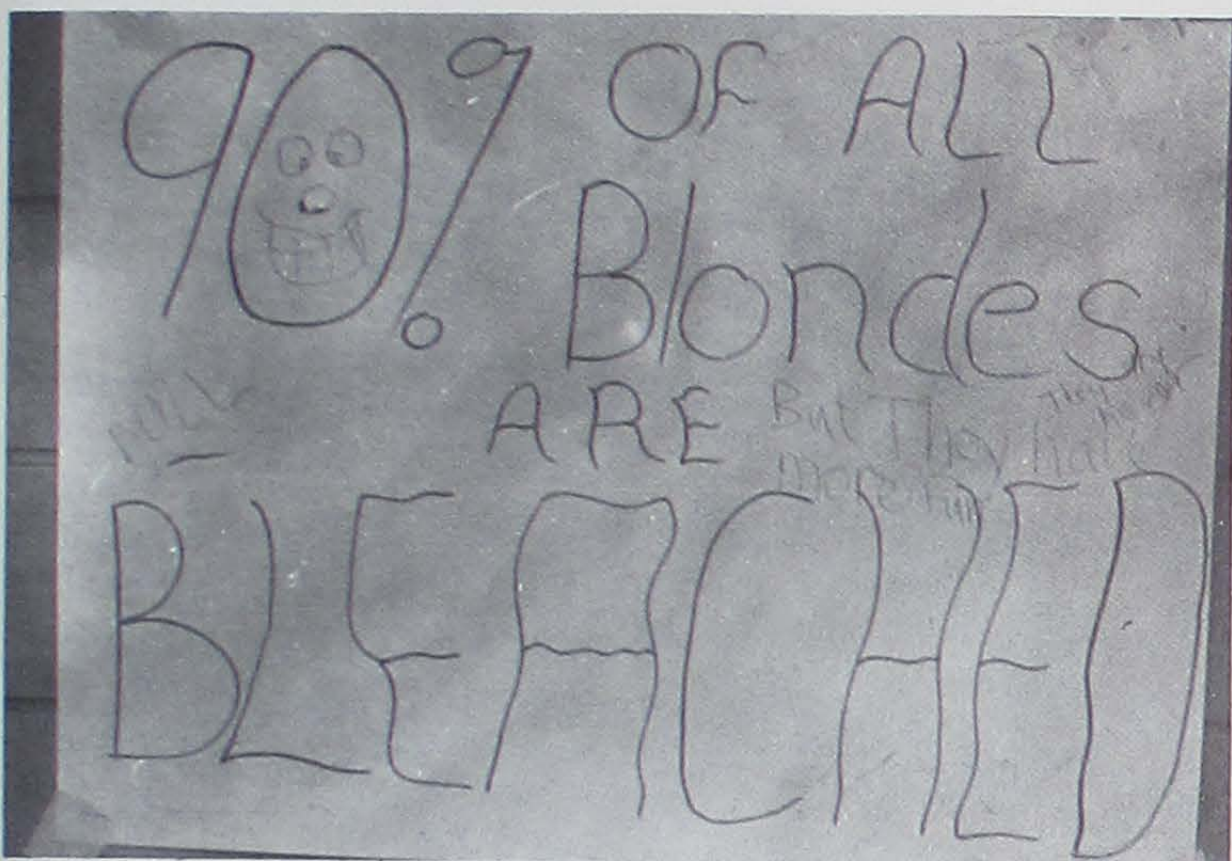

Signs, slogans, armbands, and badges proliferated as movements and countermovements were organized. However, by the end of the week excitement had faded and blondes were reintegrated.

"Even in failure, the experiment made people think," Anne Koerber, member of the sponsoring Human Rights Committee, summarized the project.

Assemblies Feature YFU, Moratorium

A great variety of assemblies was offered to the student body this year. A Moratorium assembly on October 15 featured a debate between the Rev. Wilbur Wilcox and Dr. Donald Boles on the Vietnam War. Other guest speakers included Dr. Dan McMillan and Dr. Ray Bryan for the two guidance assemblies.

Five Youth for Understanding participants told of their experiences in Europe and Laura Scott, a participant of the Iowa Partners of the Alliance for Progress, told of her exchange visit to Mexico. The UNI Concert Chorale presented a program of choral music. Students also attended pep, election, and music assemblies.

4 Teams Seek Office; ROSCO Wins

Four teams of candidates ran for student body president and vice-president in January, resulting in the election of Rob Wilson and Scott Watson as Ames High's leaders for second semester.

Three opposing teams were Jim Bartruff and Steve Pace, Tom Montag and Tom Hildebrand, and Andy McCullough and Craig Allfree.

Nominations were presented on the Monday of election week, followed by four days of campaigning with posters, buttons, and the handing out of the candidates' platforms. Friday morning each team presented its platform to the student body at an assembly. All candidates were then asked an impromptu question. Polls were opened after the assembly and voting took place during the remainder of the day. The winning candidates were announced during half time of the Ames-West Waterloo basketball game the same evening.

The winning platform included planks concerning a revised tardy system, the reorganization of the Student Council committees, lowering theater prices for high school students, auditing of classes, and the formation of a Student Lounge Committee.

Council Aids Promise, Okays Girls' Slacks

New projects as well as the traditional ones were undertaken by the first semester Student Council. For the first time, money was donated to Promise, Inc., in Hong Kong. A two-month-long debate over an AHS dress code resulted in girls wearing slacks to school. A special committee was organized to reopen and take charge of activities at the Cellar. The giving of Christmas gifts to the Story County Home was taken over by the Student Council in co-operation with the Girls' Service Committee.

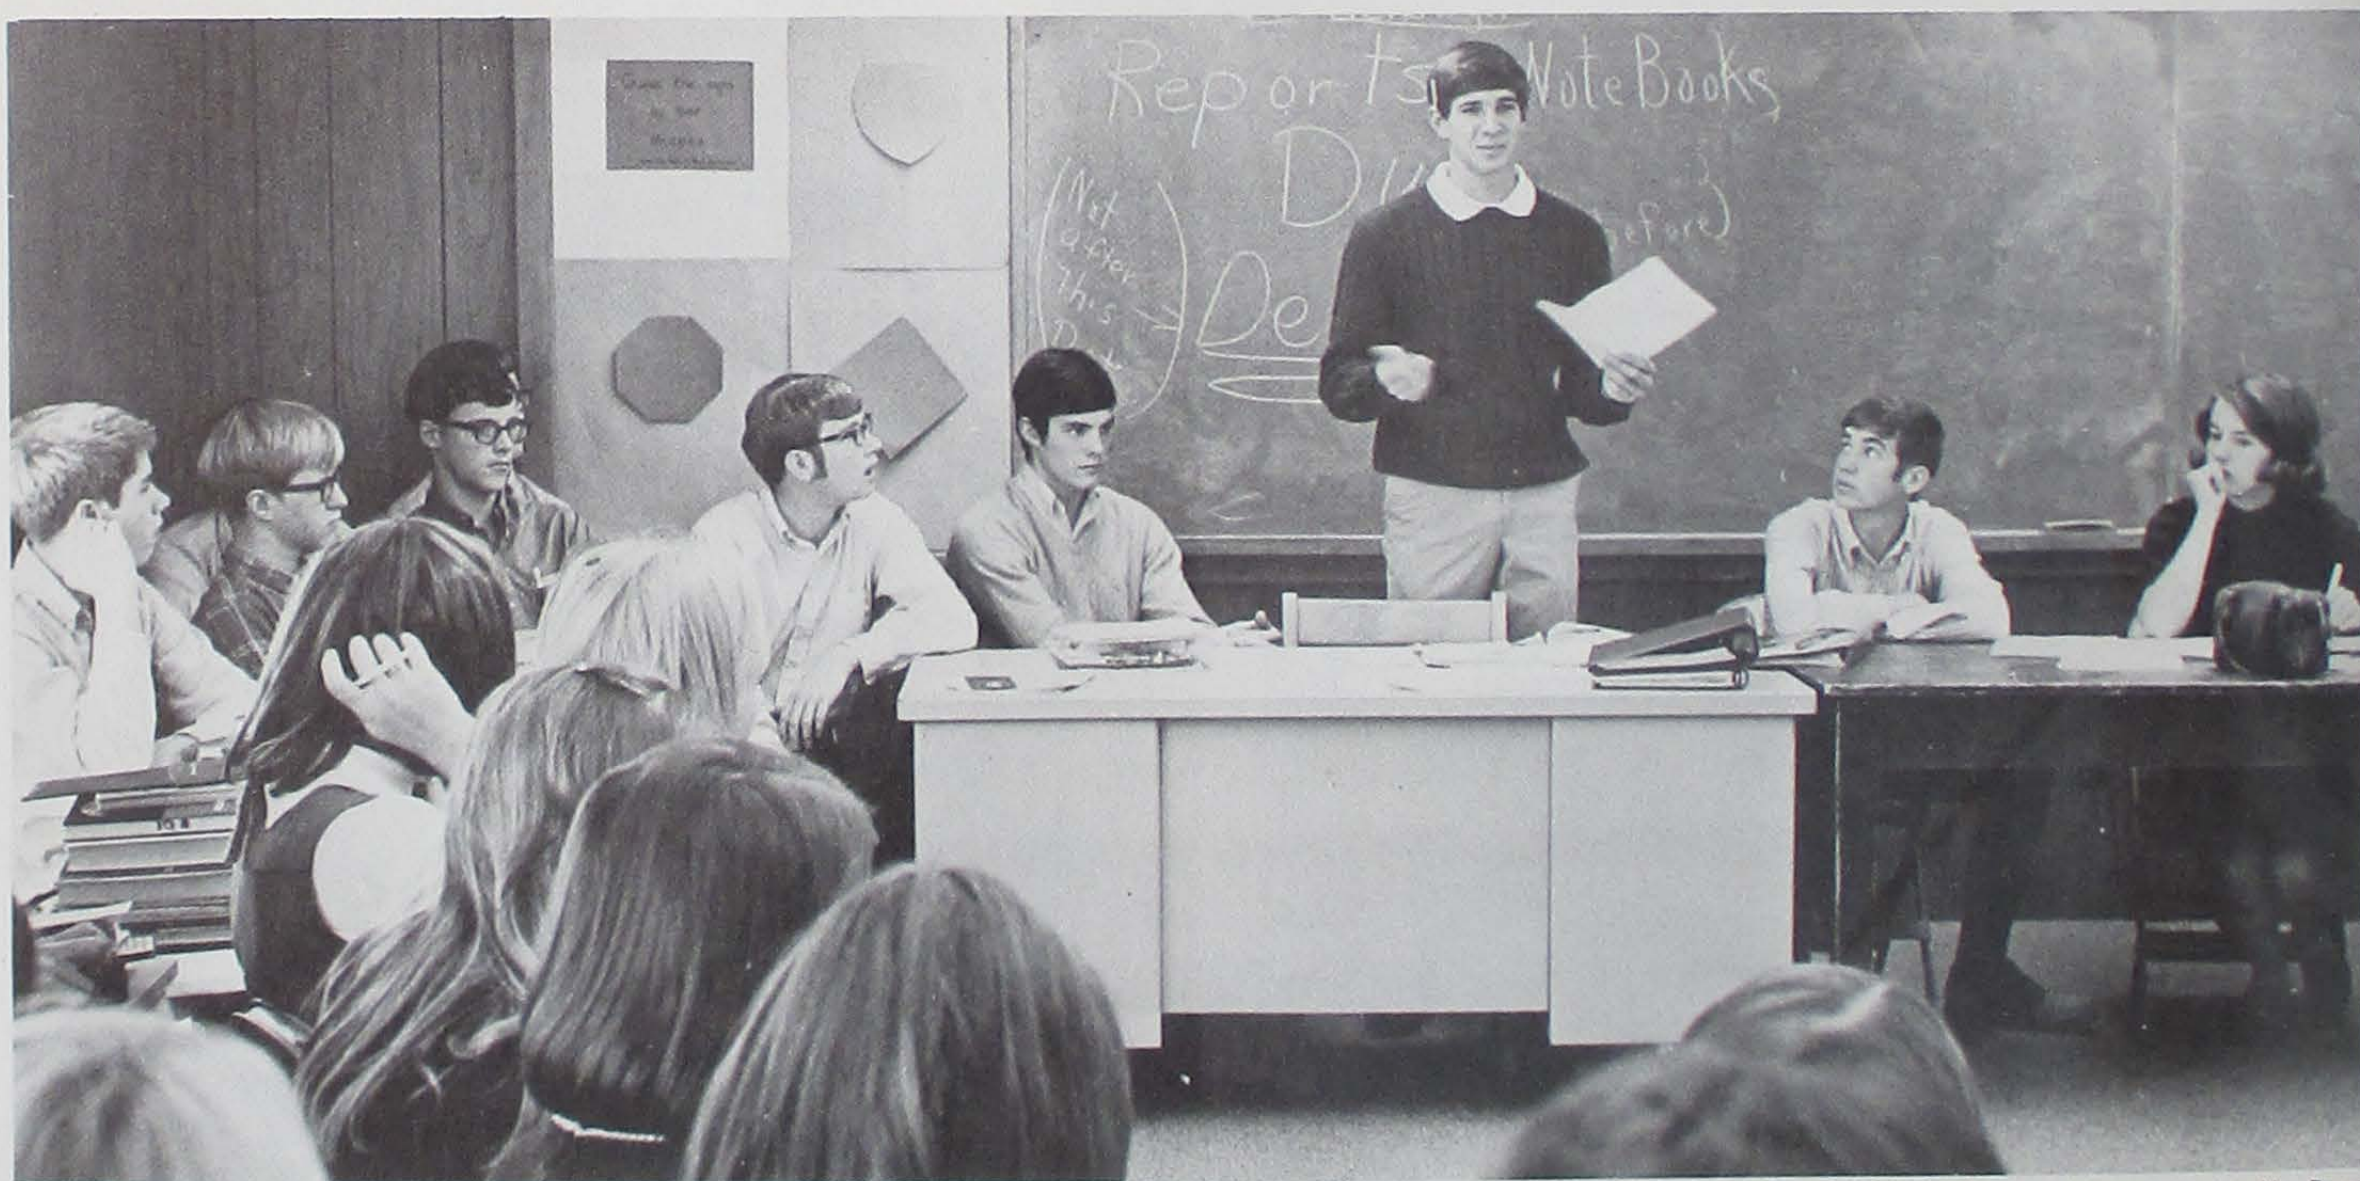

Projects continued from previous years included the sponsoring of school dances after home games, approving athletic awards, and selecting eight students to be honored at Rotary Club luncheons on the basis of citizenship.

To head the Student Council for first semester, Steve Sampson and Jeff Shelton were elected as president and vice-president in the spring of 1969. Becky Seim was elected secretary at the first council meeting and Joel Wilcox was appointed treasurer by the administration.

Spring Council Revises Tardy Plan, Sub-Units

Revision of the tardy system was the first accomplishment of the second semester Student Council. With that as a start, more projects were undertaken, including consolidation of the Student Council committees, the trial of a pass-out system for school dances, formation and operation of the Student Lounge Committee, reviewing of traffic patterns in the parking lot, placing a new trophy case in the student lounge, and support of a cancer research drive.

Other highlights were the exchange with St. Louis Park, Minnesota, and the discrimination program during Brotherhood Week.

Nearly 200 Work To Produce Oklahoma!

All areas of the fine arts were included in Oklahoma!, first play of the '69-'70 Ames High drama season. Nearly 200 people worked for more than six weeks on the musical comedy that was presented on November 13, 14, and 15.

Thirty students played roles, fourteen made up the chorus, and fourteen danced. Twenty-three musicians played in the orchestra and more than ninety students worked on crews.

Oklahoma! was directed by Mr. Zitzlsperger. Mr. Wisner was vocal director, Mr. McCoy orchestra director, Mrs. Jacobsen choreographer, and Mrs. Rowley production assistant.

The show was highlighted by colorful characters and the Ames High orchestra's music. On two consecutive nights, the capacity crowds indicated their appreciation of the play by giving the cast standing ovations.

"Farmers and cowmen should be friends," preaches Aunt Eller.

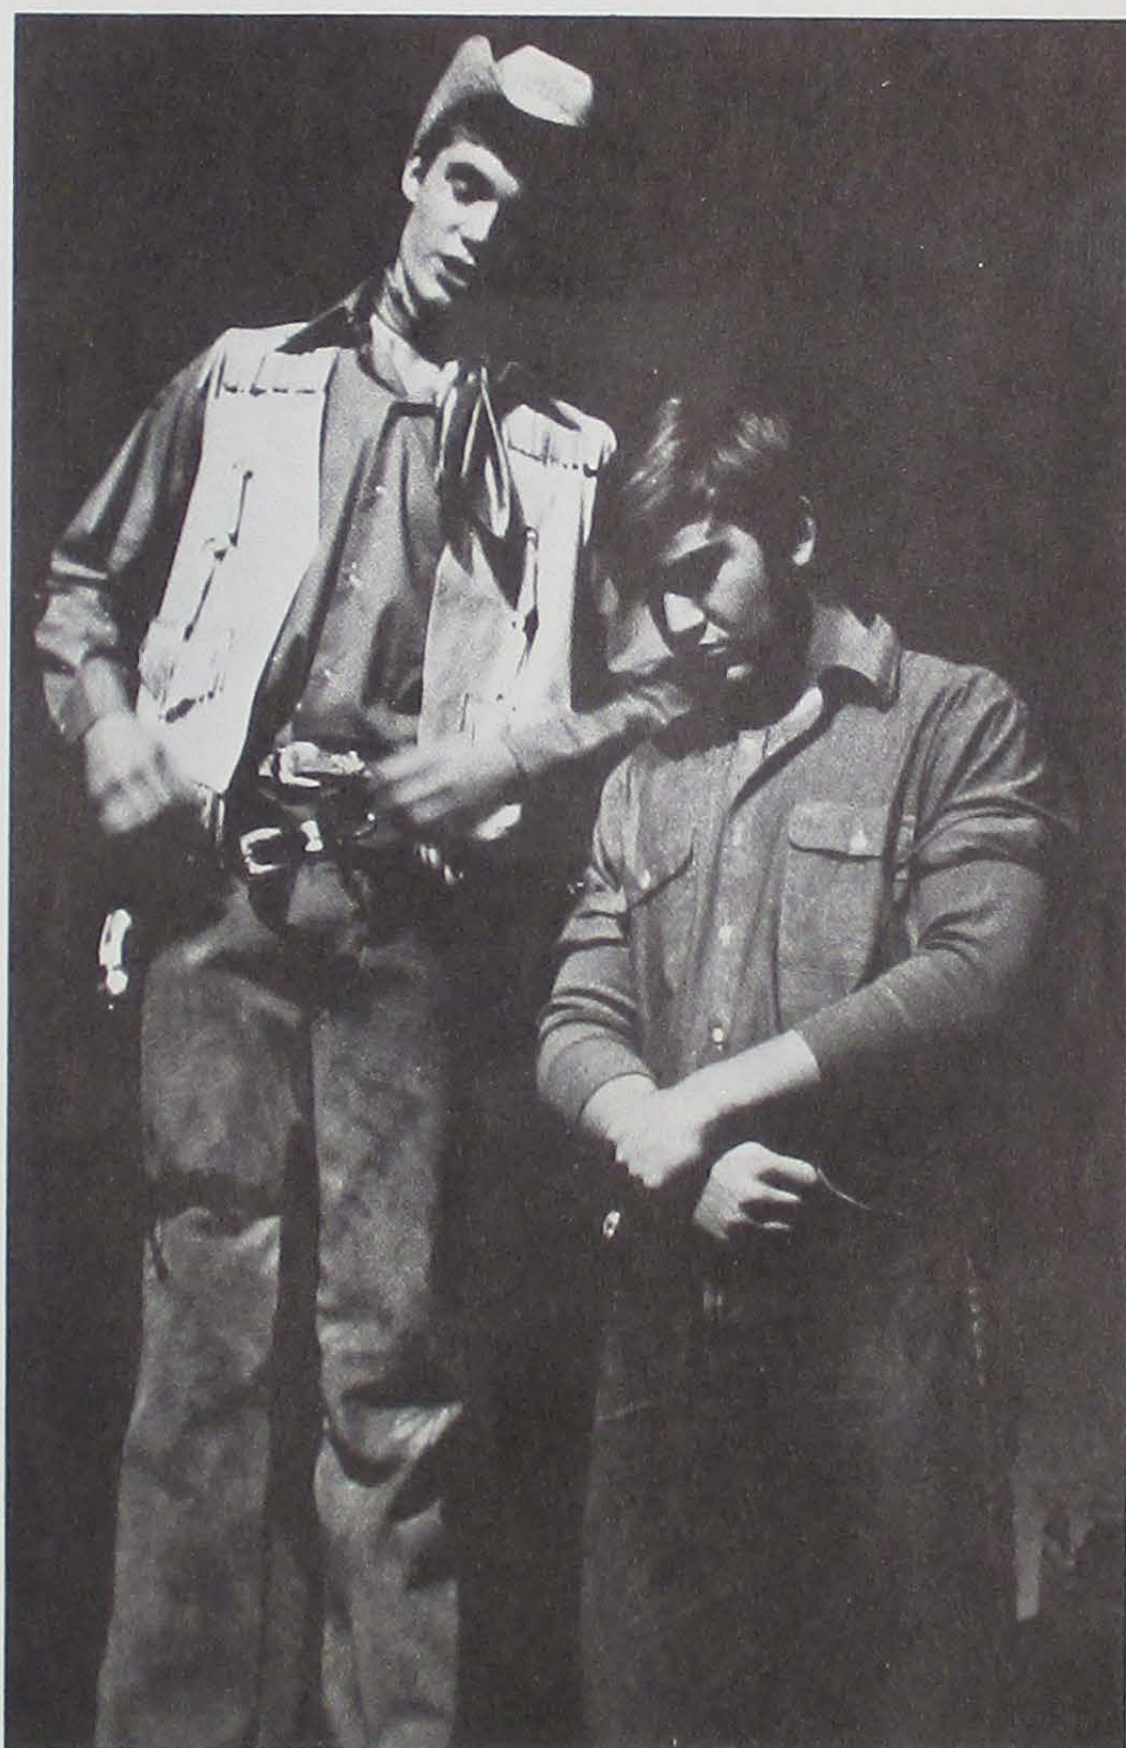

"People Will Say We're in Love" was one of the duets sung by Laurey (Celeste Stevens) and Curly (Mark Potter).

An unwilling Ali Hakim tries to talk his way out of marrying Ado Annie as her father brandishes a shotgun.

Sadly gazing upon an imaginary coffin, Jud Fry mourns as Curly paints a picture of Jud's funeral with a song.

Sheriff John Nurdyke sweeps Lance Foreman off his feet.

The entire cast assembles on the stage after a finale of "Oklahoma!" for a curtain call and receives one of two standing ovations.

Peddler Ali Hakim warns the cowboys and farmers of devices women use to trap men.

Demonstrating that an Oklahoma hello beats a Persian goodbye any day are Will (Mark Powers) and Annie (Betsy Peterson).

16 Named All-State; Drama Gives Fairy Tale

Among winter fine arts activities were a children's drama production and the annual participation in the All-State concert.

After weeks of rehearsing, Ames High musicians went to Des Moines for regional auditions Saturday, October 25, 1969. Of the twelve vocalists trying out, nine were accepted, twice as many as any previous year. Five orchestral and two band members were also accepted.

Friday of Thanksgiving vacation the 16 selected traveled to Des Moines for day-long rehearsals. Musicians from 201 high schools were represented. Final practices were Saturday afternoon at KRNT Theater and the performance was that evening. The concert was recorded as well as being broadcast over radio and television.

Rumplestiltskin, children's theater, was a great success in entertaining community youngsters. After the Thursday night performance and two Saturday matinees the stars were busy autographing programs for the children.

Mr. Trexel in 1st Year; Band Reorganizes

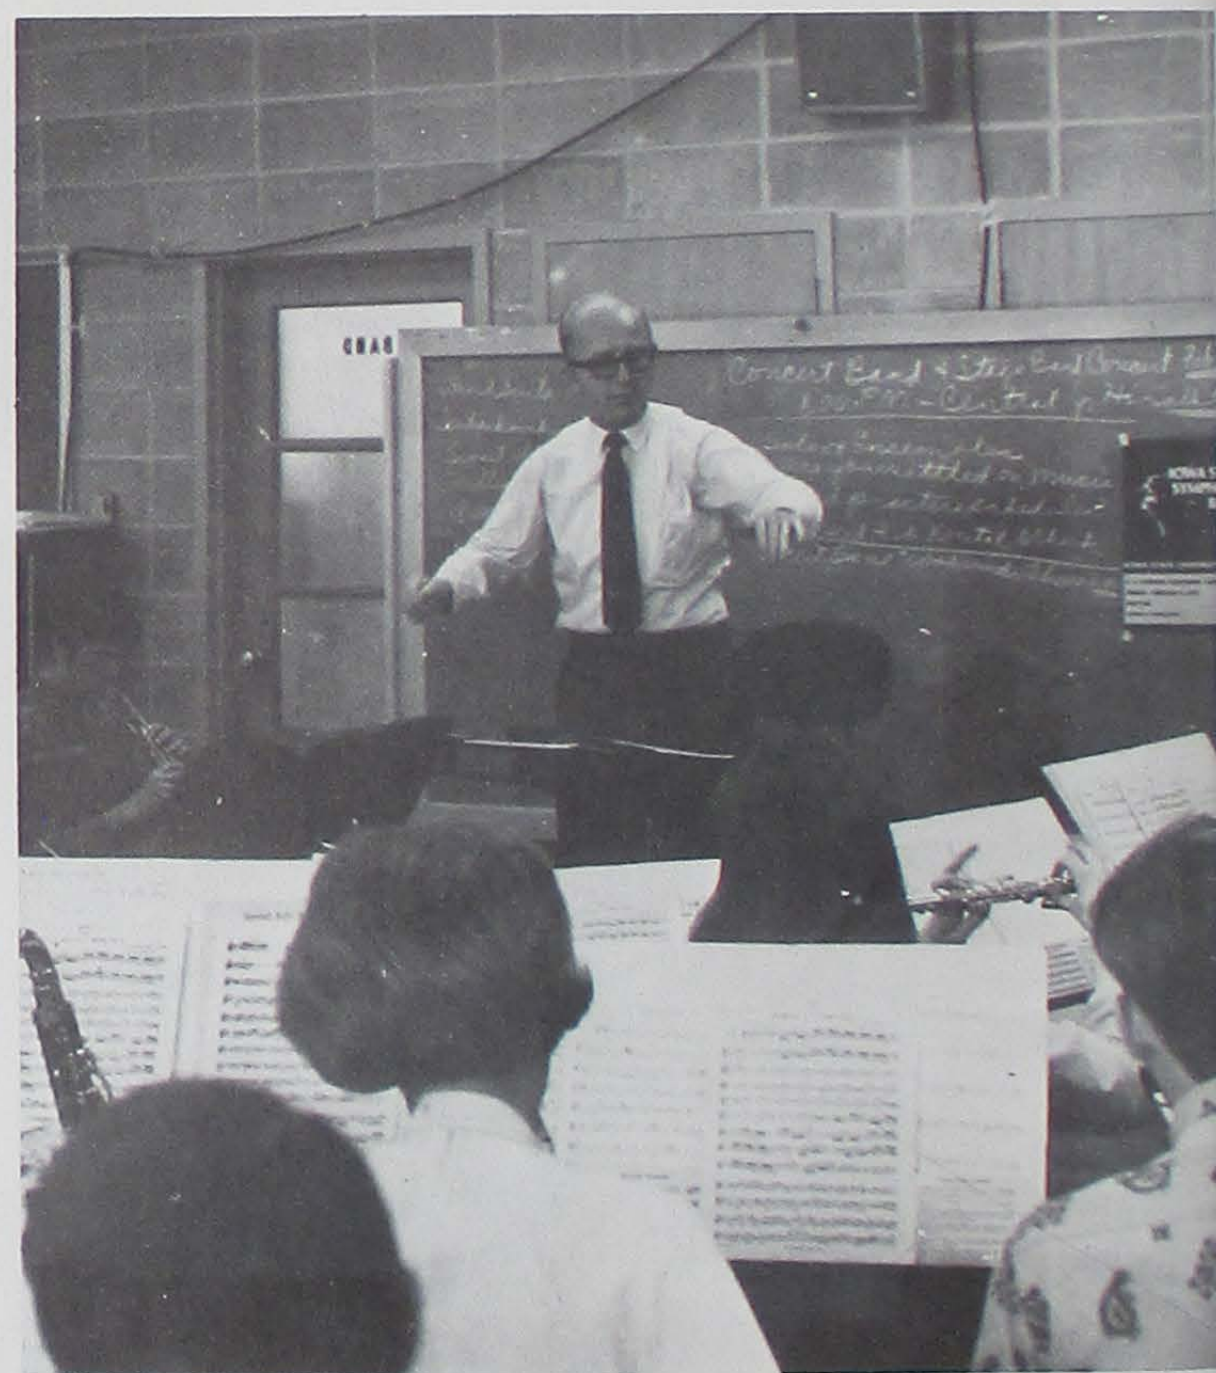

In his first year as band director, Mr. Trexel stepped right in and picked up where Mr. Day, who retired last year, left off.

One of the most noticeable changes made in the band this year was the division of one band into two, the Concert Band, with 31 members and the Symphonic Band, with 82 members. This division offered more participation to some sophomores and juniors. There were 155 students in Marching Band, which put on five halftime shows.

This year's candy sales netted about $800. The band didn't spend this money, hoping to get new uniforms soon. A concert was put on at the end of the year by the Symphonic Band.

The Pep Band was also ever-present and spirited at athletic events and pep assemblies.

Vocalists Enjoy Trip, Perform in Musical

A trip to Minneapolis, the fall musical, and numerous programs and assemblies highlighted this year's activities for the Vocal Music Department.

Under the direction of Mr. Al Wiser, the choir put on its annual musical program in the fall instead of a spring performance. This was followed by a presentation for the Elks Club in November. Accompanied by the humanities students, the vocalists, traveled to Minneapolis for three days and two nights of attending concerts and visiting fine arts buildings and programs. Oklahoma! provided some behind-the-scene action, followed by the Holiday Music Festival, which was executed in conjunction with the rest of the music department.

March 20 brought the vocal assembly followed by a concert featuring the choirs of ISU, AHS, and Mason City High School.

The choir also will perform at Commencement.

'My Favorite Things' Is Water Show Theme

"My Favorite Things" was the theme of this year's annual water show. There were, according to Mrs. Anne Jacobsen, sponsor, 80 to 90 participants in the event including members of the Modern Dance and Synchronized Swimming Clubs. Mrs. Inge Heringstad added to its success by designing elaborate costumes.

Throughout the year the Synchronettes and Dancers were involved in many money-making projects, which included bakesales, selling Christmas cards, sweatsuits, and working at concession stands during the football season.

Students Research UN, Debate Topics

Different topics sparked the Model UN assembly this year. The 23 members researched their countries extensively in preparation for discussing such problems as peace-keeping for the '70's, and the Chinese and Irish questions.

One major workshop was held in the Ames district and each delegation held its own meetings. The actual Model UN was held in Cedar Falls in April. AHS represented the countries of Senegal, Romania, and El Salvador. Members had a chance to learn about United Nations management. Working with and meeting large groups of other students was another experience provided.

Debate Club, sponsored by Mr. Scott, traveled around the state for seven meets. The nine members participated in the Iowa High School Forensic League and Speech Association. This year's debates dealt with the abolition of unilateral military intervention.

French Club Goal: Tour of France in '71

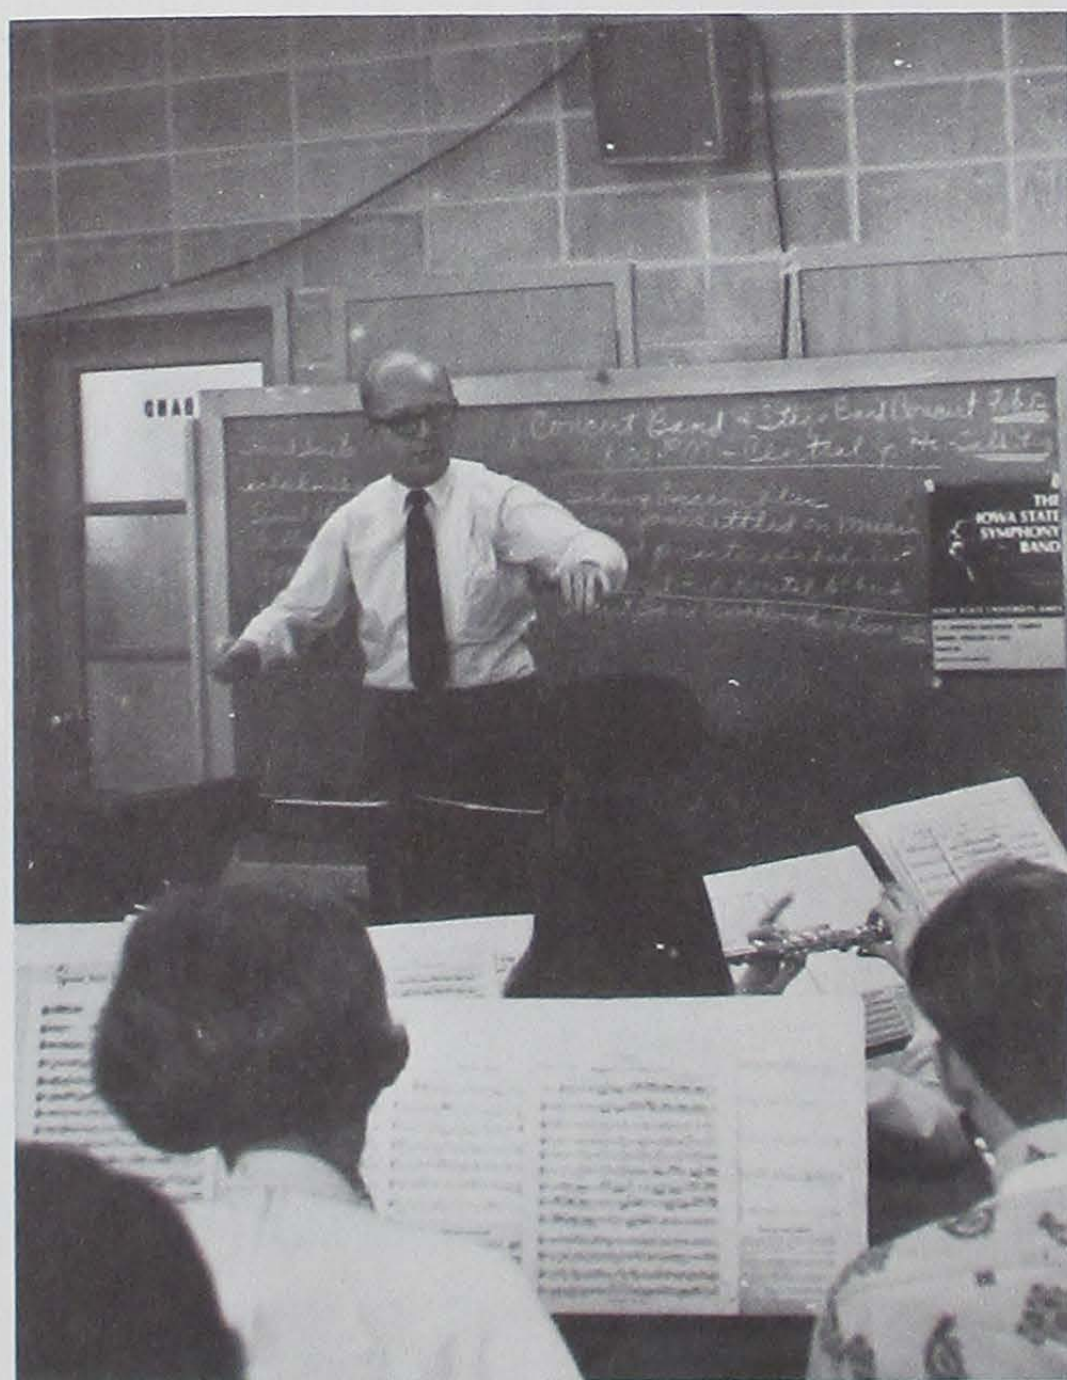

Parties, plays, carols, and candy sales busied the members of the French, German, Latin, and Spanish clubs. Latin students rushed out to the snow to have a snowmobile party. During the week before the Christmas holidays, Latin club serenaded various classes.

Working at the concession stands at the basketball and football games, the German club earned money for wiener roasts and sledding parties. For the annual Christmas party, the members ate at Shakey's.

After breaking the traditional pinata, the Spanish club celebrated by singing carols. Fourth year Spanish students presented the play "Cuendo las nubes cambiande nariz."

French club held their annual Mardi Gras and caroled local French families during the Christmas season. Car washes, bake sales, and a fair helped raise money towards sending students to France in 1971.

Clubs Offer Variety Of Services, Activities

Six miscellaneous clubs provided opportunities for Ames High students to learn, give service, and engage in social activities this year.

Key Club, sponsored by Kiwanis Club, offered service to Ames High and helped again at the annual Pancake Day. Art Club consisted of people who met informally after school to work on projects. Their works were often lent to the school to enliven drab halls and classrooms.

DECA, VICA, and OEA were three clubs more related to class work. DECA and OEA raised money through candy and bake sales. With the money they accumulated, they sent representatives to state and national club conventions. VICA also profited from candy sales but used the funds to go on field trips to large industries in Des Moines, Kansas City, and other cities.

The Masked Seniors formed the newest club at Ames High. They often wrote cogent remarks concerning school administrators, policies, and events. They delivered their messages through posters and letters; their identity was still a mystery when Spirit went to press.

GRA Takes up Weights, Jogging, Football

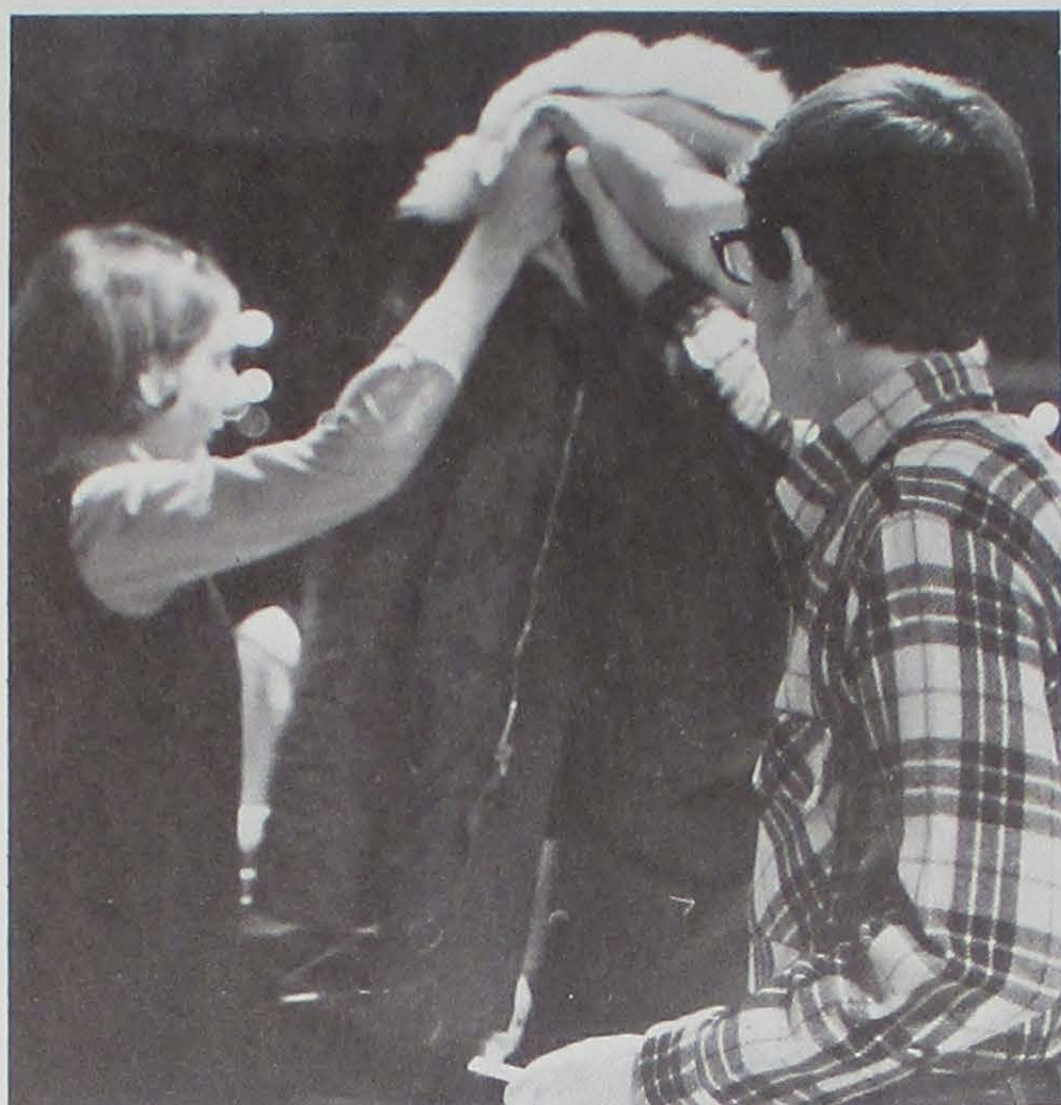

A variety of new activities kept members of the AHS Girls' Recreational Association in good shape. Almost 150 girls paid dues to become participants in the parties and games held throughout the year.

Basketball and volleyball tournaments were played again this year along with the new sports of football and jogging and working out with the weight machine. During warm weather the girls were allowed to use the track for jogging and running hurdles. Football games took place in back of the school. The weight machine was made available for girls' use this year every night GRA met. As the girls underwent wet and wild swimming parties they fulfilled their duty to keep physically fit at the same time.

Pep Club Sells Photos To Cut Bus Rates

Several changes highlighted the '69-'70 Pep Club year. Points were collected in a more efficient way than before. Individual attendance slips were handed out at the door to every girl in her Pep Club uniform. Senior Pep Club girls were recognized by new emblems that were worn on the uniform's vest. The emblems depicted four areas of high school life: athletics, music, academics, and brotherhood.

Pep Club continued its fund-raising bake sales and also sponsored a back-to-school dance. This year a coat check was introduced at the basketball games. Contributions from fans helped earn money for the treasury. Pep Club also sold sophomore and junior yearbook picture packets. The money earned from these projects allowed Pep Club members to travel by bus to out-of-town games for reduced rates.

Revised Cheersquad Adopts New Uniforms

Varsity Cheersquad had many new looks in 1970, highlighted by new orange-and-white uniforms, consisting of sweaters, vests, turtle necks, and skirts. Grey bench warmers were added.

The varsity squad was made up of twelve regulars and six alternates. The wrestling squad was abolished and the cheerleaders alternated cheering at football, basketball, swimming, and wrestling events. Last summer three girls attended a cheerleading camp and learned the basic fundamentals and a new style of cheering used this year.

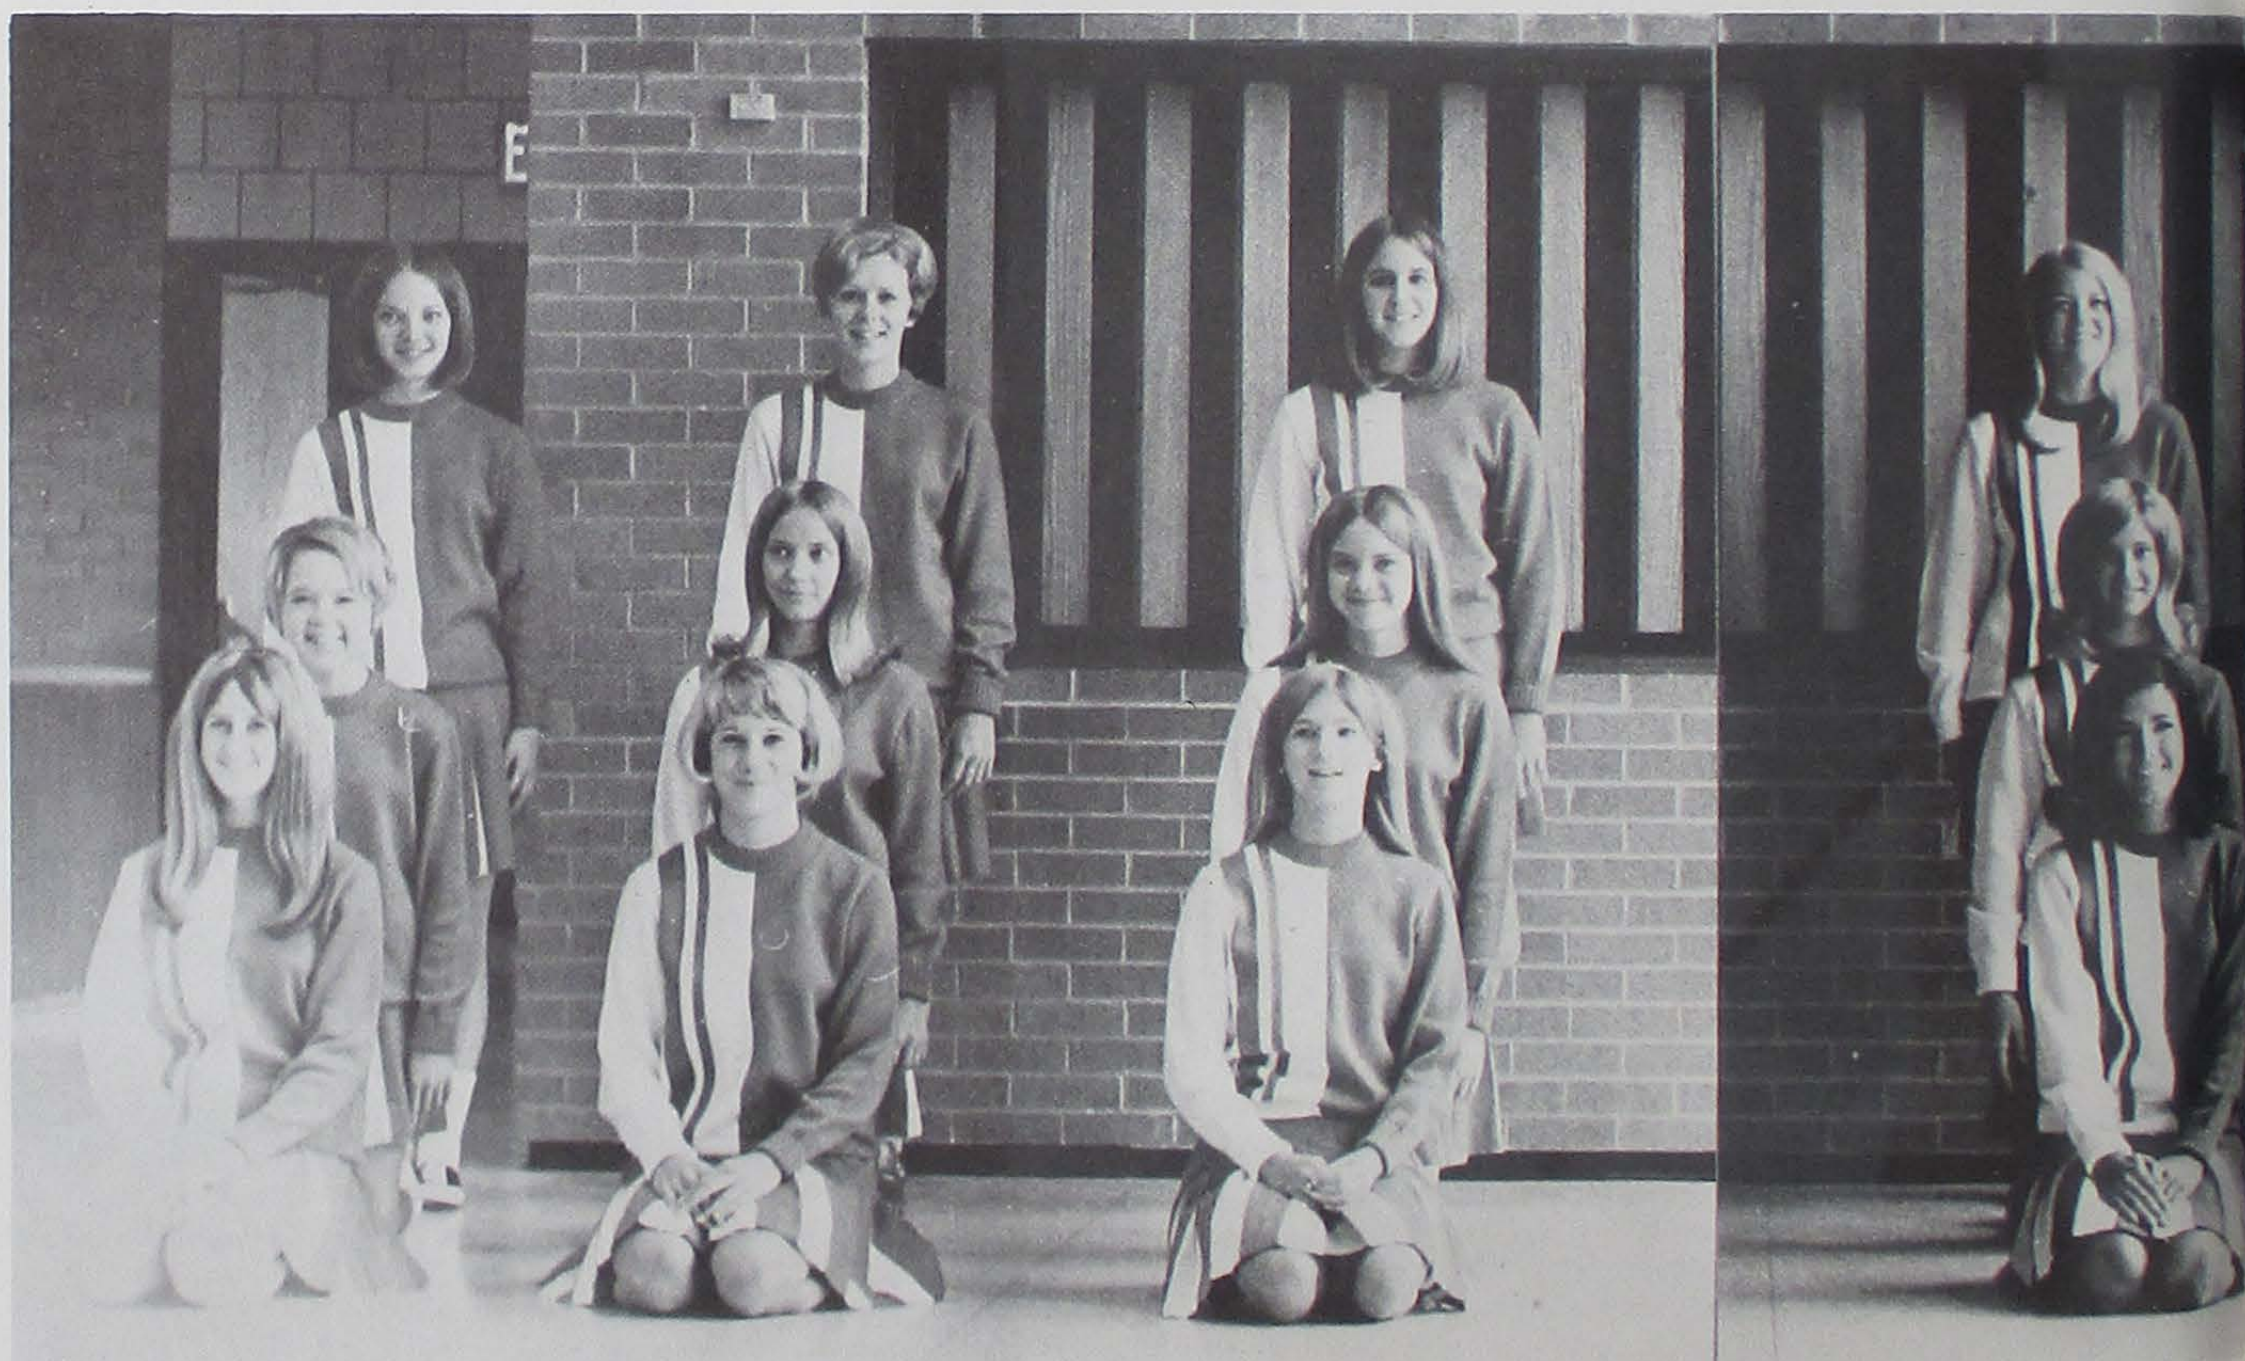

The sophomore squad consisted of eight regulars and no alternates. Working closely with Mrs. Switzer, practices were held regularly.

To raise money, the cheerleaders sold programs and held bake sales. The varsity captains were Kathy Tuttle and Bonnie Sandve. Marla Stritzel was sophomore captain.

A-Club Donates Clocks, Pitching Machine

A-Club's major contribution to Ames High this year was the purchase of a pitching machine for the baseball team and riding time clocks for the wrestling team. The lettermen raised money for these gifts by selling football programs at home games and the state track meet programs. A-Club also sponsored the Twirp Dance in the spring and was responsible for renaming the Little Cyclone Relays the Hi Covey Relays.

Club meetings were often made more interesting by the appearance of guest speakers such as ISU wrestler Dan Gable and the showing of sports highlights at Iowa State and other Big Eight schools. A-Club officers were Jon Hunziker, president; Tim Linder, vice-president; and Rob Wilson, secretary-treasurer.

Firesquad Disbanded After 33 Years Service

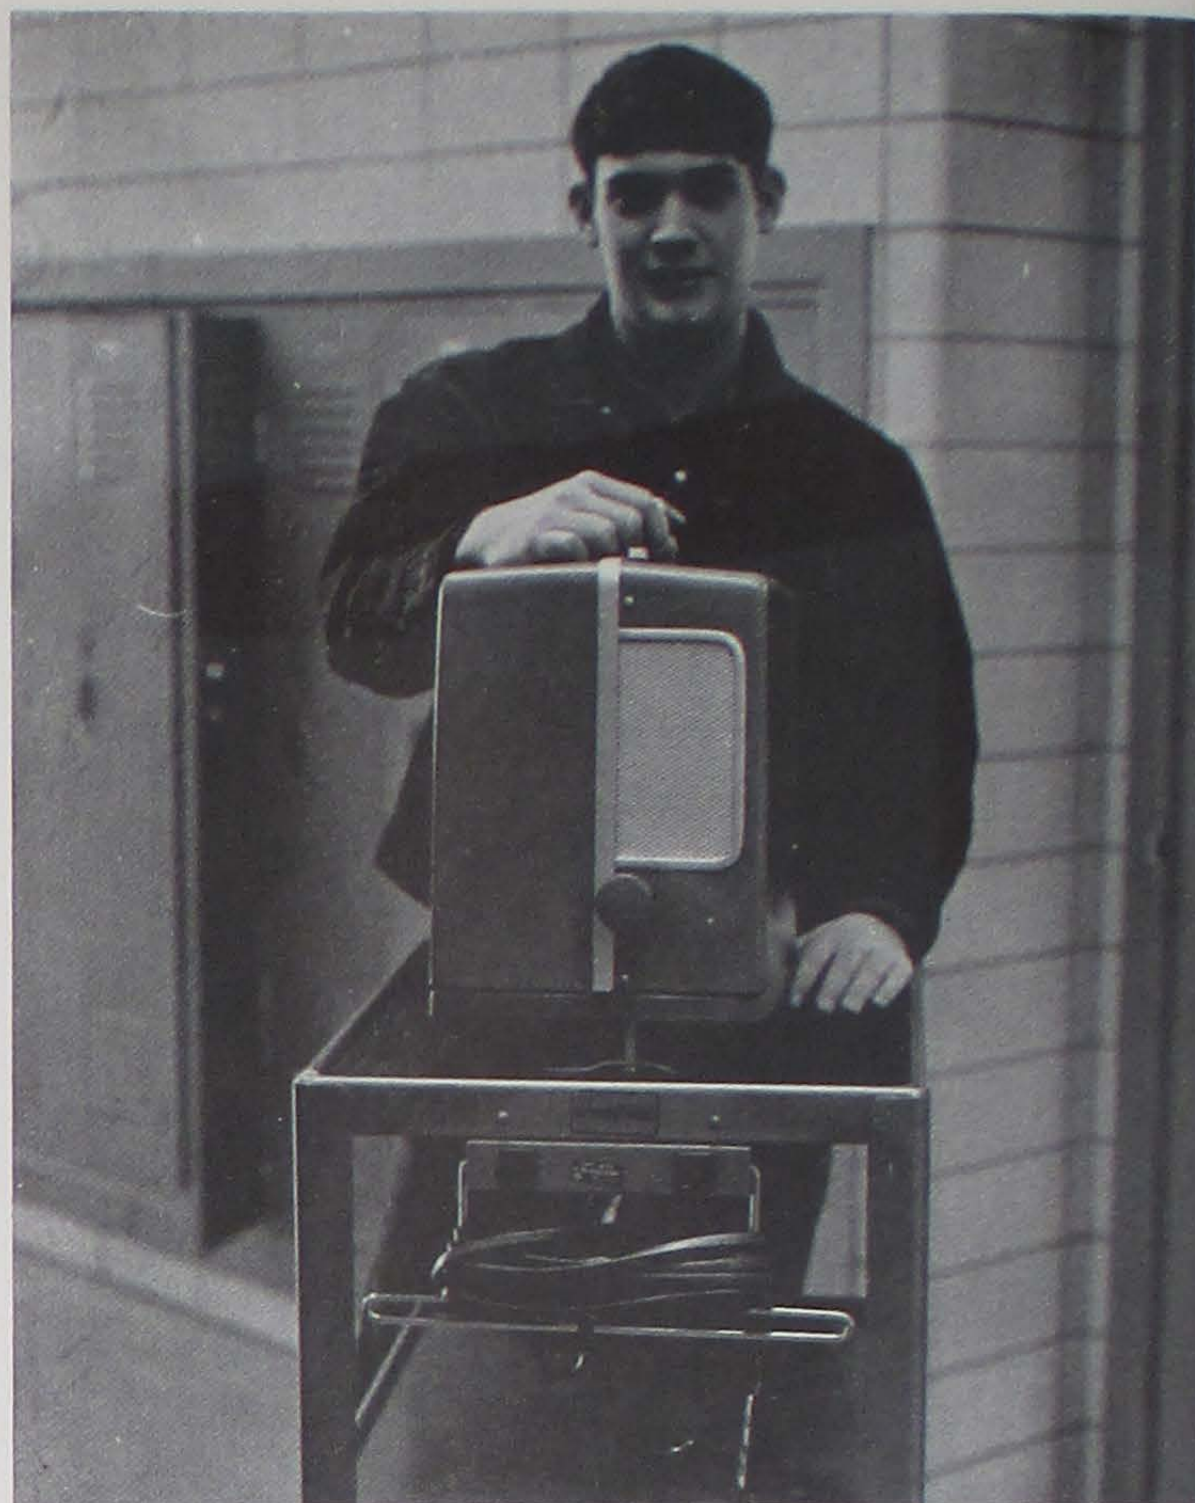

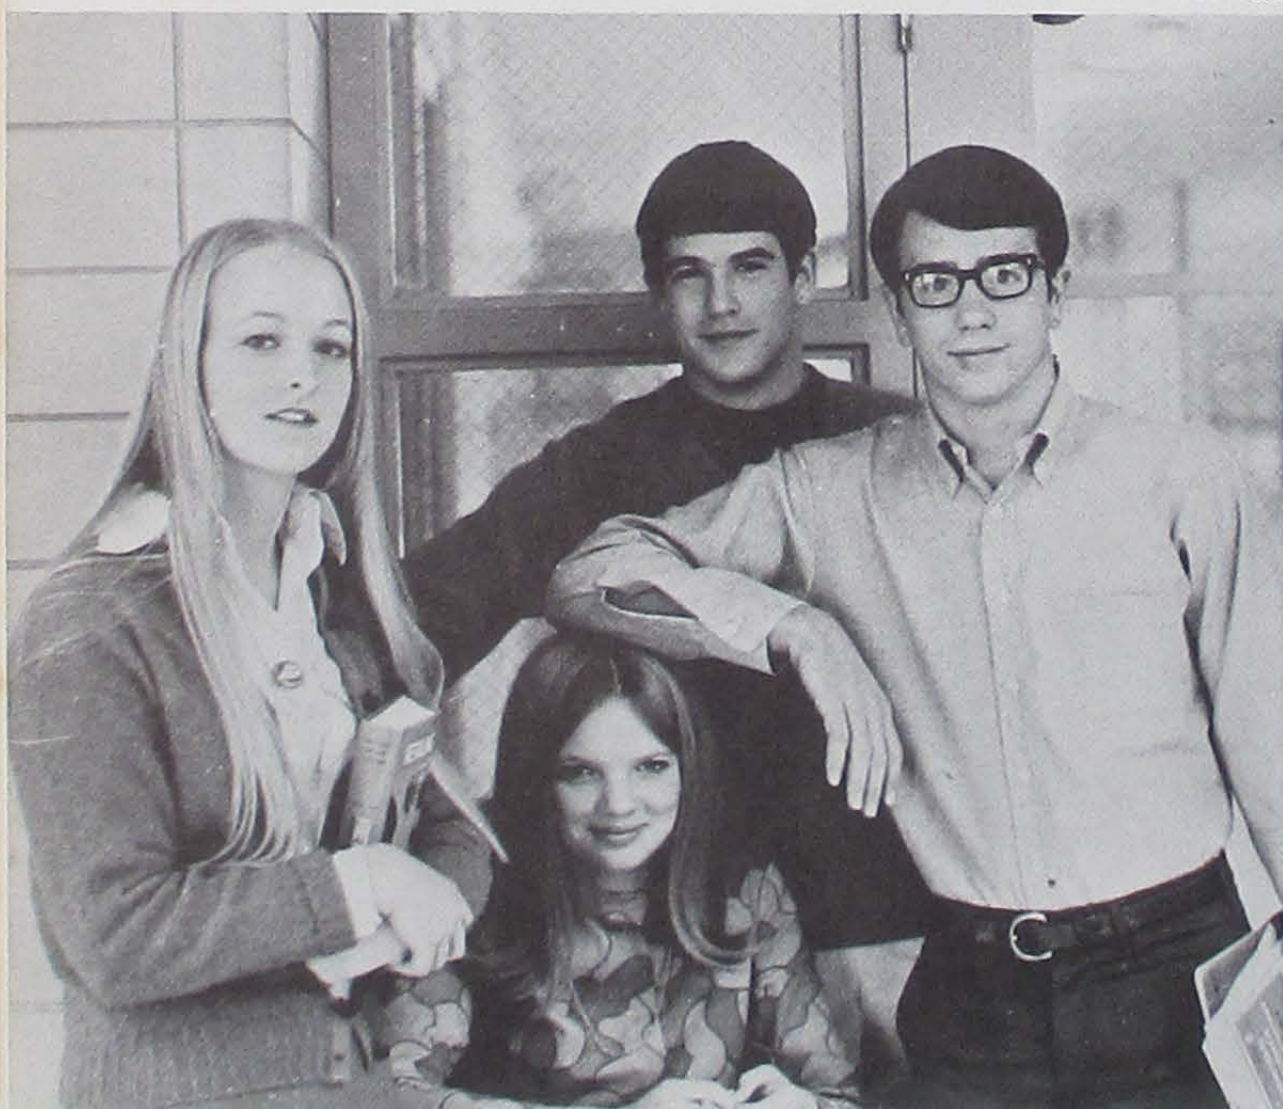

Firesquad was temporarily disbanded this year after 33 years existence. The Firesquad boys, twelve from each class, supervised the lunch line, regulated traffic in the halls, and saw that parking lot rules were obeyed. In 1968-69 the Firesquad scope was widened to include hall monitors.

Early second semester, the sponsors decided that the Firesquad no longer served its purpose and the whole organization, including hall monitors, was disbanded. Tentative plans for next year include a Firesquad under Mr. Ritland's supervision. A few boys continued to help supervise the cafeteria and parking lot.

Other students helped school personnel with a variety of duties. Some students assisted the office staff by answering the phone and typing. Several boys saw that the projectors and films were in the right place at the right time. Other students volunteered their services in the library. They shelved books and were available at the desk before and during school. The gathering and checking of attendance slips was done by student helpers.

Grid Season Ends 4-5, 5 Players Win Honors

Despite a somewhat tarnished 4-5 record, the Ames High Little Cyclones saw tough competition and finished the season on a pleasant note in their second year of Big Eight play. Five outstanding Cyclones received honors this year, not only in the conference, but statewide and nationally as well.

Doug Fosberg was a name known to all Ames fans as he continually crushed the opponent's defense. Doug made a success of his senior year by compiling a long list of football honors. He captured a first-team All-Conference position as well as a third-team All-State spot from the IDPA poll and a fifth-team ranking from the Des Moines Register. Fosberg also received an honorable mention as a Little All-American.

Steve Jackson, a junior, and Kerry Joseph, a senior, earned positions on the second-team Big 8 roster. They also earned All-State honorable mentions, as did Mike Owings and Ted Birdseye.

Cyclones Win Bell Back In Up-and-Down Season

The Little Cyclones did what every team would like to do as they won their first and last games of the seasons. The season's opener with Boone proved exciting as the rivalry for the victory bell was at its hottest. Ames led at the half 14-8. Fine play and the scoring of Steve Jackson and Jon Hunziker helped Ames win 48-16. Jackson also led the Cyclones to a 40-12 victory over Marshalltown with his four touchdowns.

Fort Dodge handed Ames a heartbreaker by defeating the Cyclones 26-25. The next game offered encouragement as Ames walked over Newton 58-14. The Little Cyclones were down for the next three games because of injuries and interceptions. A "second season" was declared, but Ames still lost to Mason City, 25-14. The final game against Webster City was a great moral victory, finding Ames on top, 32-21.

War-torn and plenty dirty, Dean Newton eagerly awaits his return to the Webster City game.

6 Players Top Team In Scoring, Defense

Several Little Cyclones demonstrated excellent performance in their games. Doug Fosberg led the team defensively as he recorded 143 tackles for an average of 13.5 tackles per game.

Offensively, Steve Jackson was the man to catch. Jackson carried 134 times to gain 878 yards (6.4-yard average). He also received 17 complete passes and led the team scoring with 112 points. Jon Hunziker was second high scorer with 42 points for 71 carries and 8 pass receptions. Scott Milliken completed 49 passes to gain 924 yards. Two linemen, Dean Newton and Kerry Joseph, also scored by grabbing a fumble for a TD. Chuck Walter kicked a field goal from 37 yards in a JV game.

Tired and frustrated, Coach Johnson mulls over strategy as an offensive attempt fails.

The Little Cyclone sophomore team, spurred on again by mentors Tramp and Zediker, finished with an outstanding 8-1 record. They out-scored their opponents 264 to 131. In the season's opener with Lincoln, the mighty sophomores stormed past their opponents 35-6.

The young Cyclones went on to win six straight games, giving Newton a solid trouncing in both games. Their only loss was suffered at the hands of a powerful Fort Dodge team, but the Ames sophomores bounced right back to defeat Hoover and Webster City.

Brian Anderson led the team in scoring with 17 touchdowns, and Ron Greiner led in tackling with 54½ tackles.

Harriers Top Big 8; 2-Mile Record Falls

Coach John Sletten's first cross-country team lived up to its expectations as a top-notch squad, capturing the conference crown with 46 points, 17 less than the second-place winner, Cedar Falls.

Senior lettermen Hugh Collins and Tom Montag broke the old school record of 9:58 with times of 9:54.9 and 9:55.1 in the State Cross-Country Meet. Ames captured third in the 20-team field with 18 points, only two more than state champ Waterloo Columbus. Bob Mudd placed ninth with 10:08.3.

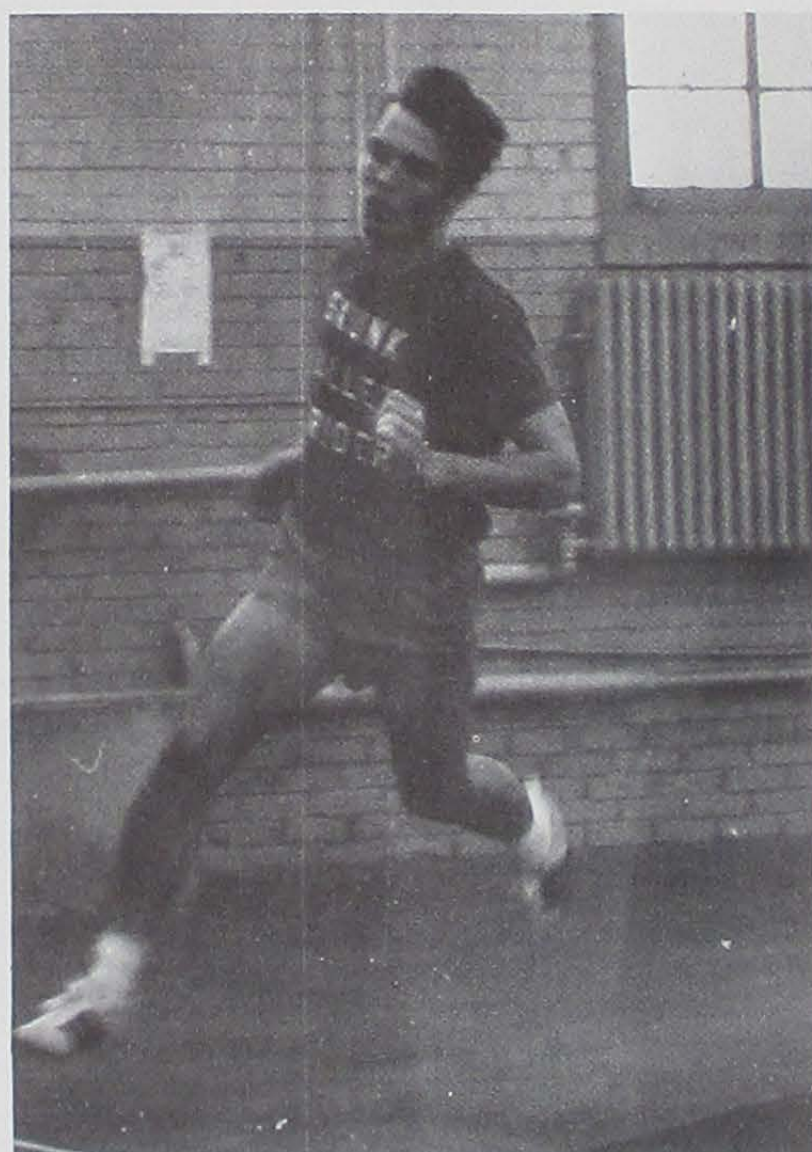

In the State Mile Team Race Ames took second with 23 points, six more than Clinton. The harriers also placed first in both the Mike Augustine Invitational and Mile-Team Race.

Track competition continued over into the winter with ninety boys coming out for indoor track. Practice was held in the Old Men's Gym Monday through Saturday and tops were run during the week. Coach Sletten said he thought the team was doing well as many records were broken.

Wrestlers Take District, Send Four to State

Gathering steam as the season progressed, Ames wrestlers took the sectional and district titles, sent four to state, and boasted a state champion, Gerry Seifert, a senior transfer who was New York state champion as a junior.

The Little Cyclones won their first four meets over S. E. Polk, Carroll Kuemper, Fort Dodge, and Newton. But a tie with Perry was the best they could muster the next six meets. They then won easily over Boone, but lost to Urbandale, winding up 5-6-1.

During the regular season the grapplers captured first in the Quadrangular and fourth in the Ames Invitational and Audubon Tourneys. They took first in the sectionals and district and placed seventh in the state tournament.

Besides Gerry Seifert, Jon Hunziker, Doug Fosberg, and Virgil Fowles also qualified for state. Hunziker captured third after winning the consolation match.

Reserves Back Varsity With Hours of Effort

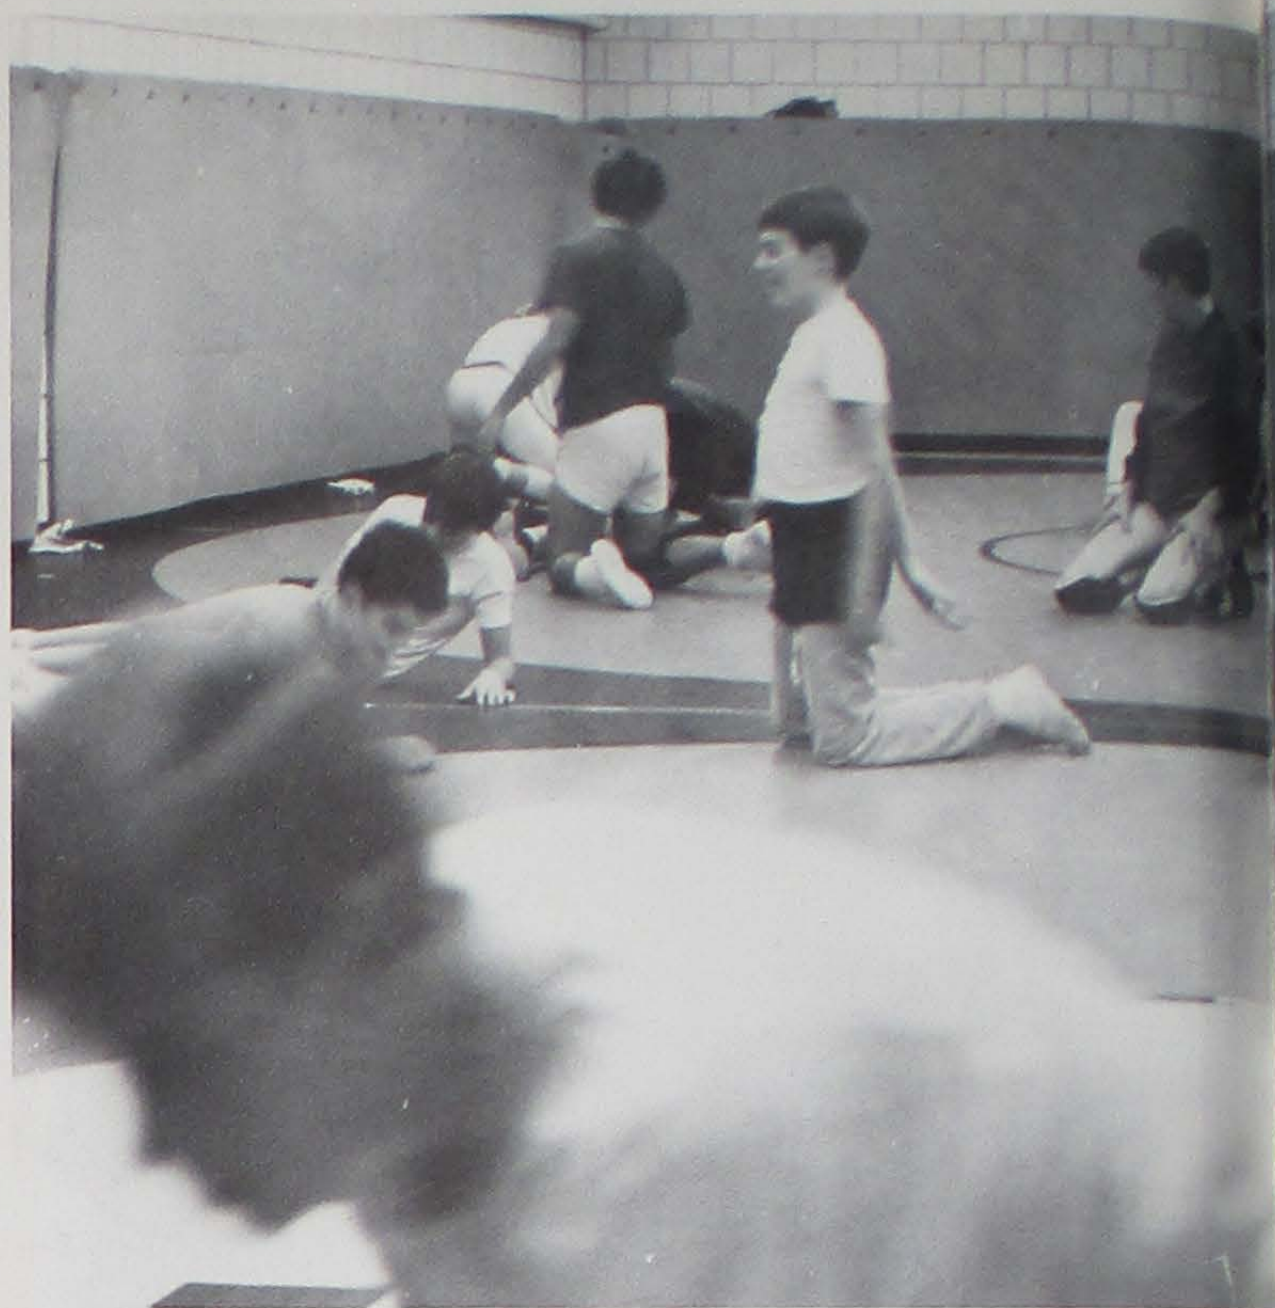

Junior varsity and varsity teams of both swimmers and wrestlers spent many hours of long back-breaking work as they gained both experience and ability through competition. Although the rewards weren't as glamorous as the varsity is, the hours put in were important as a reserve.

The JV swimming team had two meets of their own, and swam exhibition in many varsity home meets. In meets with Marshalltown and Hoover the team compiled a perfect record of two wins and no losses. Under the direction of Coach Dave Posegate, the team practiced with the varsity. From a total of 22 sophomores that went out, eight swam varsity and two placed well in the state meet.

The junior varsity wrestling team, coached by Bob Impeccoven, posted a 6-6 record for the season, averaging 20.9 points a meet. The Little Cyclones grapplers defeated S. E. Polk with little trouble but barely escaped South Hamilton, finally winning 27-25. Their remaining victories were over Newton, Perry, Boone, and Urbandale.

Coach Bailey's sophomore wrestling team outdid the varsity and junior-varsity teams in both the season's record and points averaged per meet. The sophs recorded a 5-4 mark for the season and averaged 25.2 points a meet. They manhandled their first opponent, S. E. Polk, 35-5, and won easily over Fort Dodge 34-13. But Valley of West Des Moines almost defeated them, losing in the end 24-23. Eagle Grove was the other victim, going down in defeat twice to the sophomore grapplers.

Young Swimmers Take Second Big 8 Title

With only five lettermen, the Ames High swim team was considered young, but it did not take long for them to prove their skill, compiling a 9 and 2 record in dual meets and taking first place in the Marshalltown Invitational. They also captured the Big Eight Conference title and third place in the district meet.

Through the efforts of Mike Anderson, Tom Bliss, Todd Miller, and Art Staniforth, who placed in individual events, and the team of Anderson, Scott Creamer, Staniforth and Bliss, which placed third in the 400-yard freestyle relay, Ames took eighth place in the state meet.

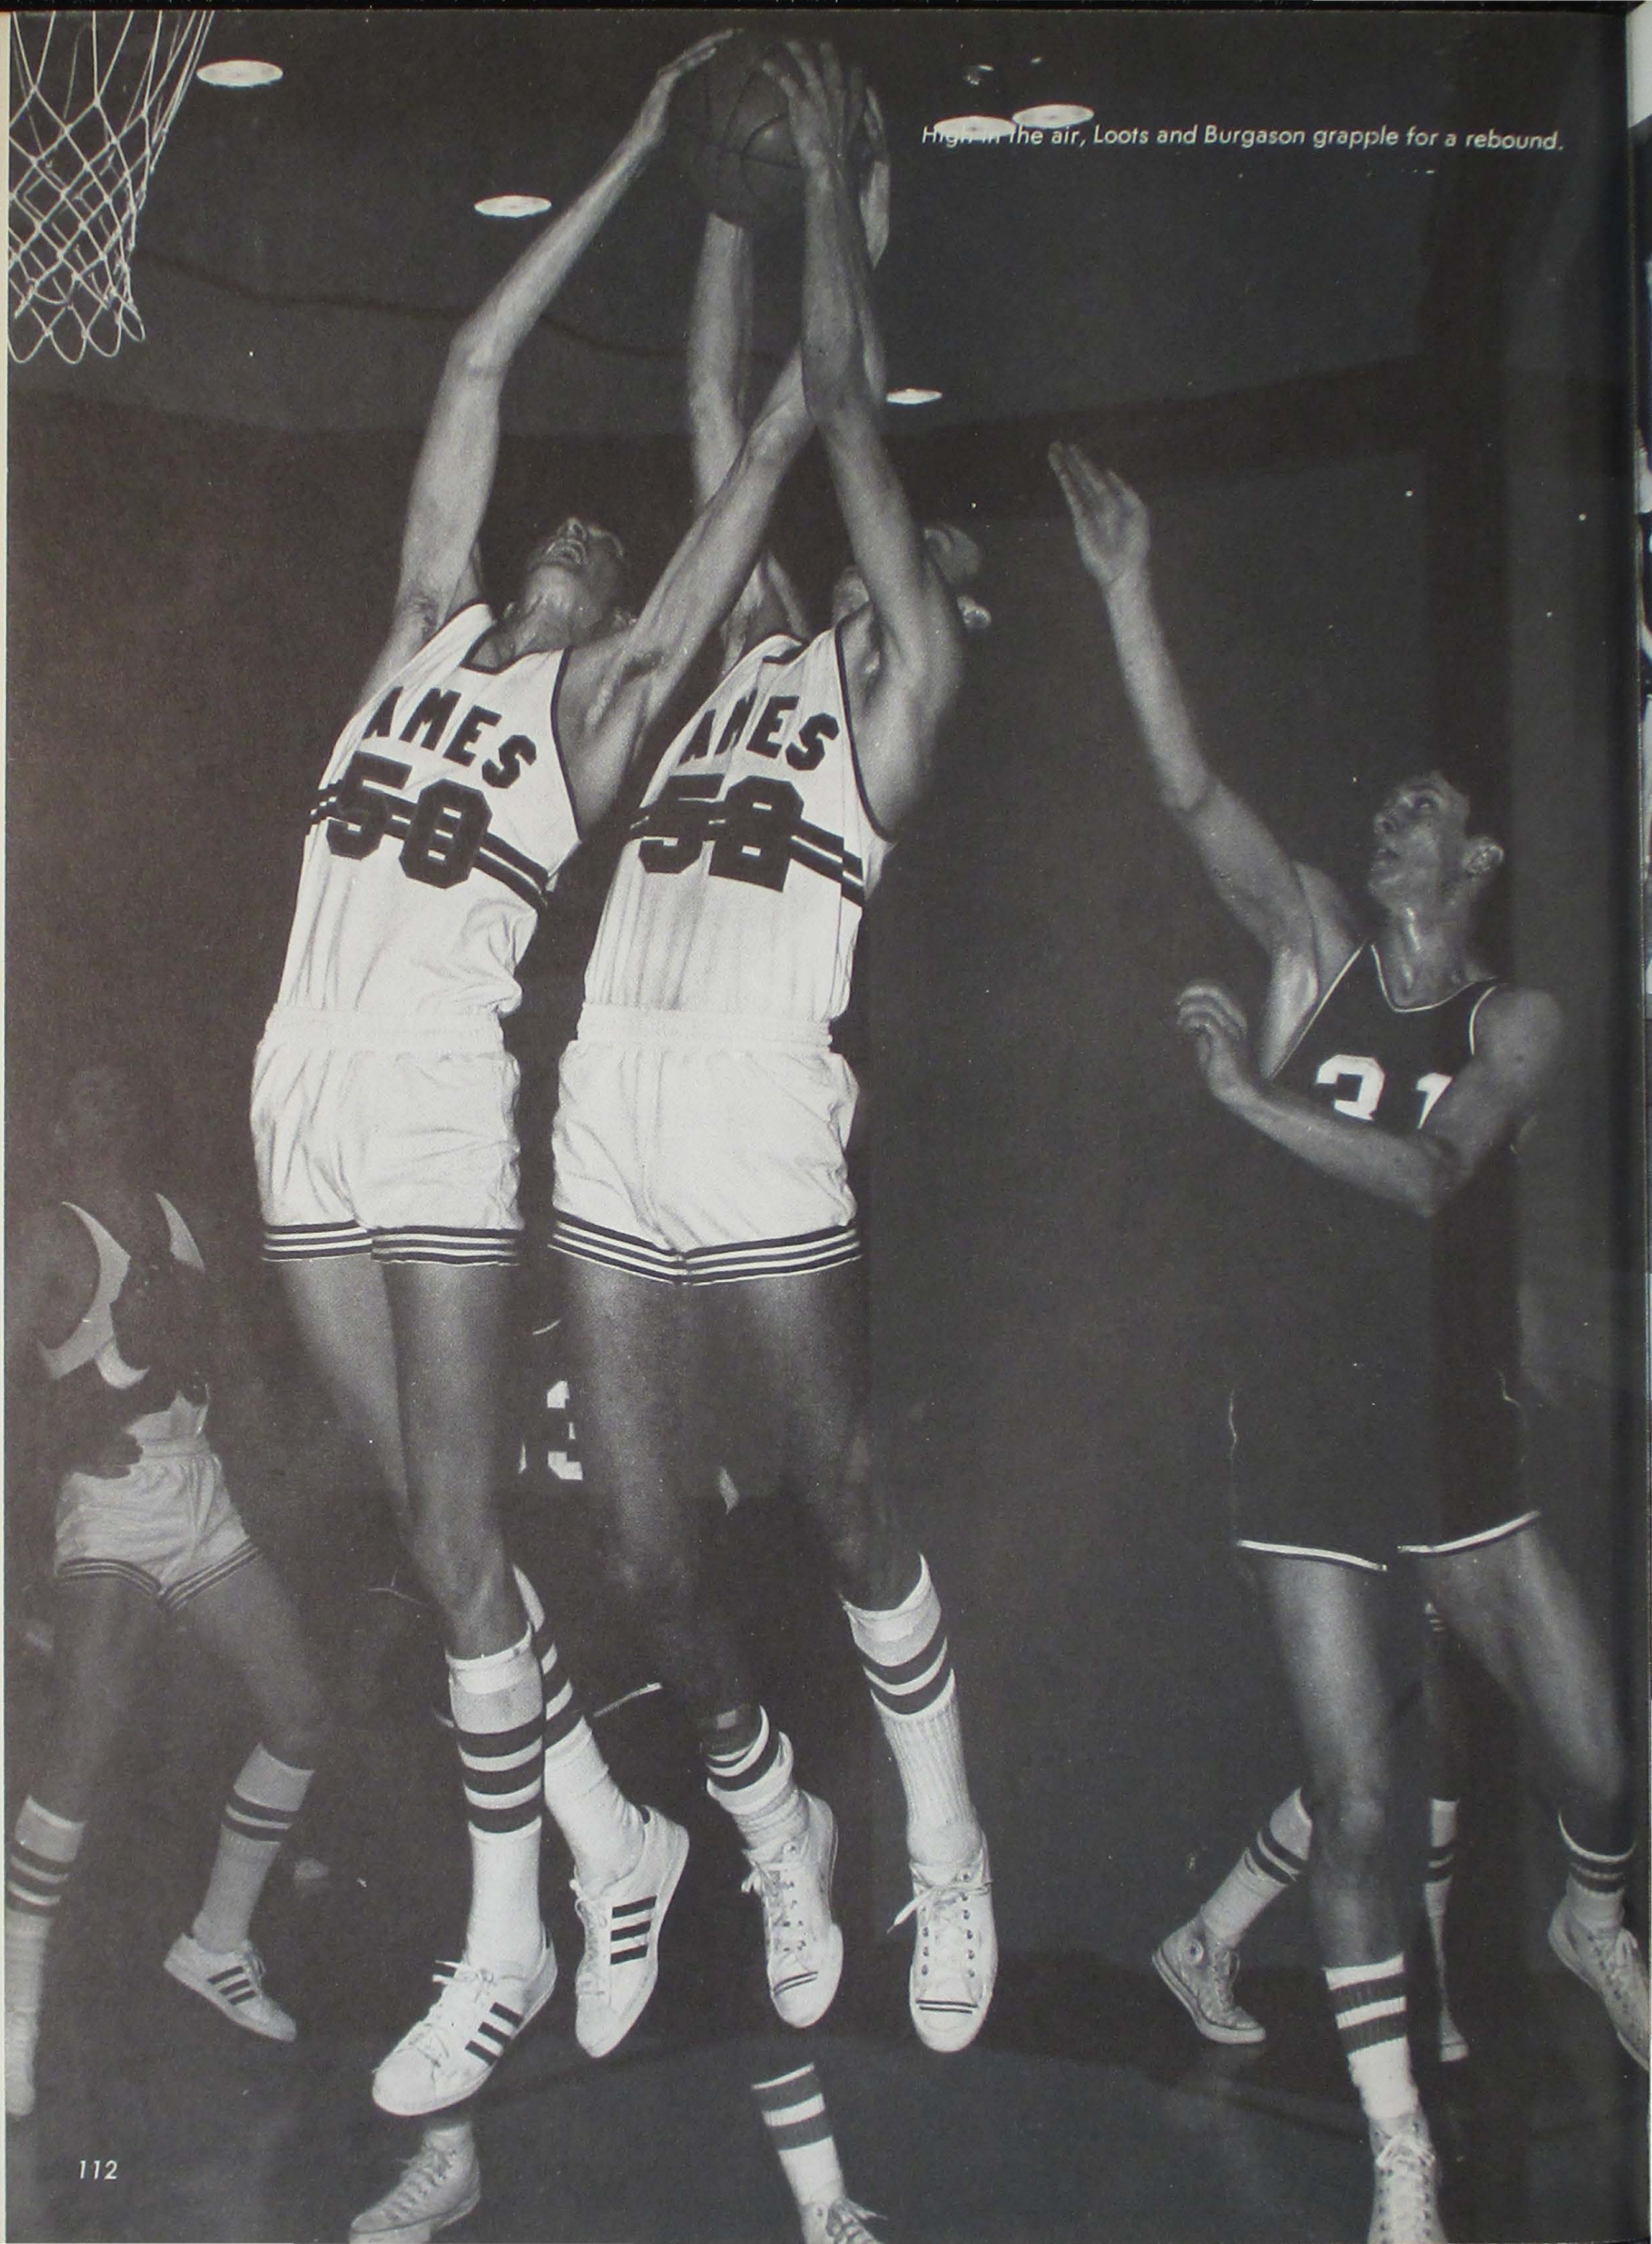

"These wins would not have been possible without the help of other members on the team who might not have placed high, but still won valuable points. As in all our meets, it was a team effort that gave us eighth in the state," commented Coach Mike Wittmer. This was his first year at coaching.

Cagers First in Big 8; End Season 14-4

The varsity basketball team started out the season by completely dominating the first six teams it met. Newton came close but Ames dealt them a five-point loss. Ames next met Cedar Falls away; the result was a defeat and a swollen jaw sustained by Tim Linder.

After playing East Waterloo for Ames' second loss, the Little Cyclones came home to win the next three games, including a 101-62 win over West Waterloo.

Winning only one of the next three, the Cyclones gained steam to end the season much as it started by winning the last four games for a 14-4 season record. This left Ames in a three-way tie for first in the Big Eight, sharing honors with East Waterloo and Cedar Falls.

Junior varsity players ended their season at 6-3. This year's JV squad was comprised of the juniors on the varsity rather than being an independent squad. The coaching staff felt that the members of the varsity who saw the least action would gain valuable experience by playing a separate schedule.

Sophs End Season 14-4; 2nd in Conference

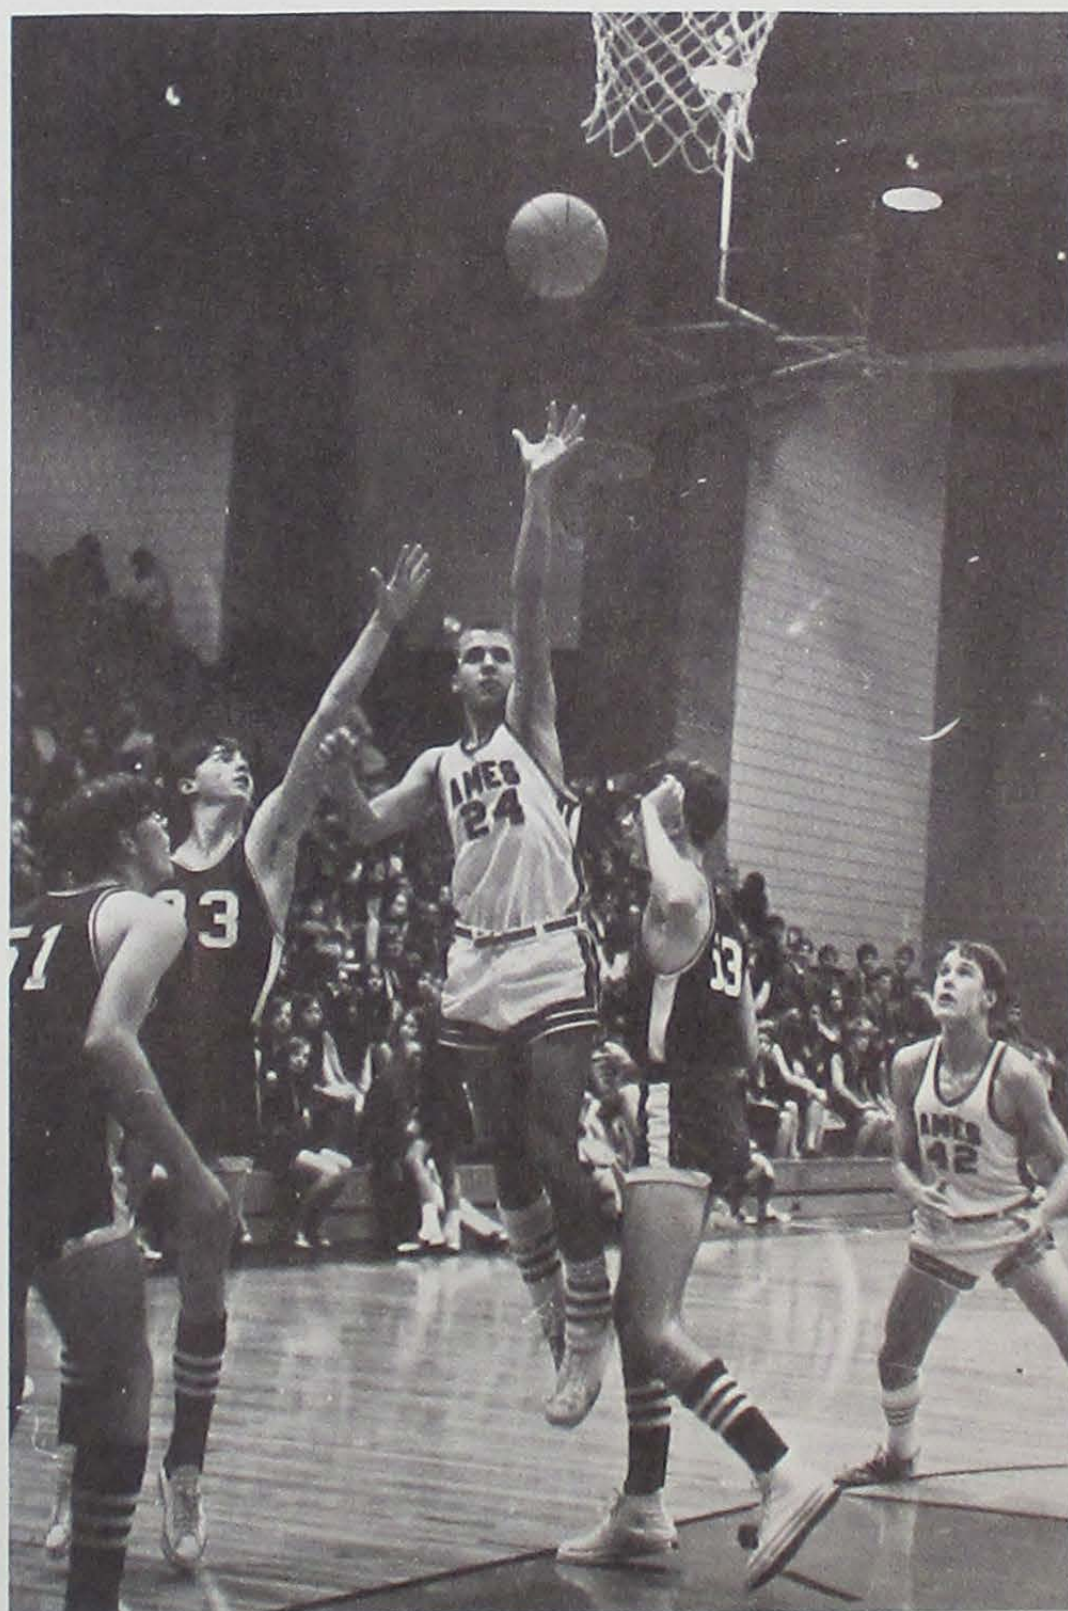

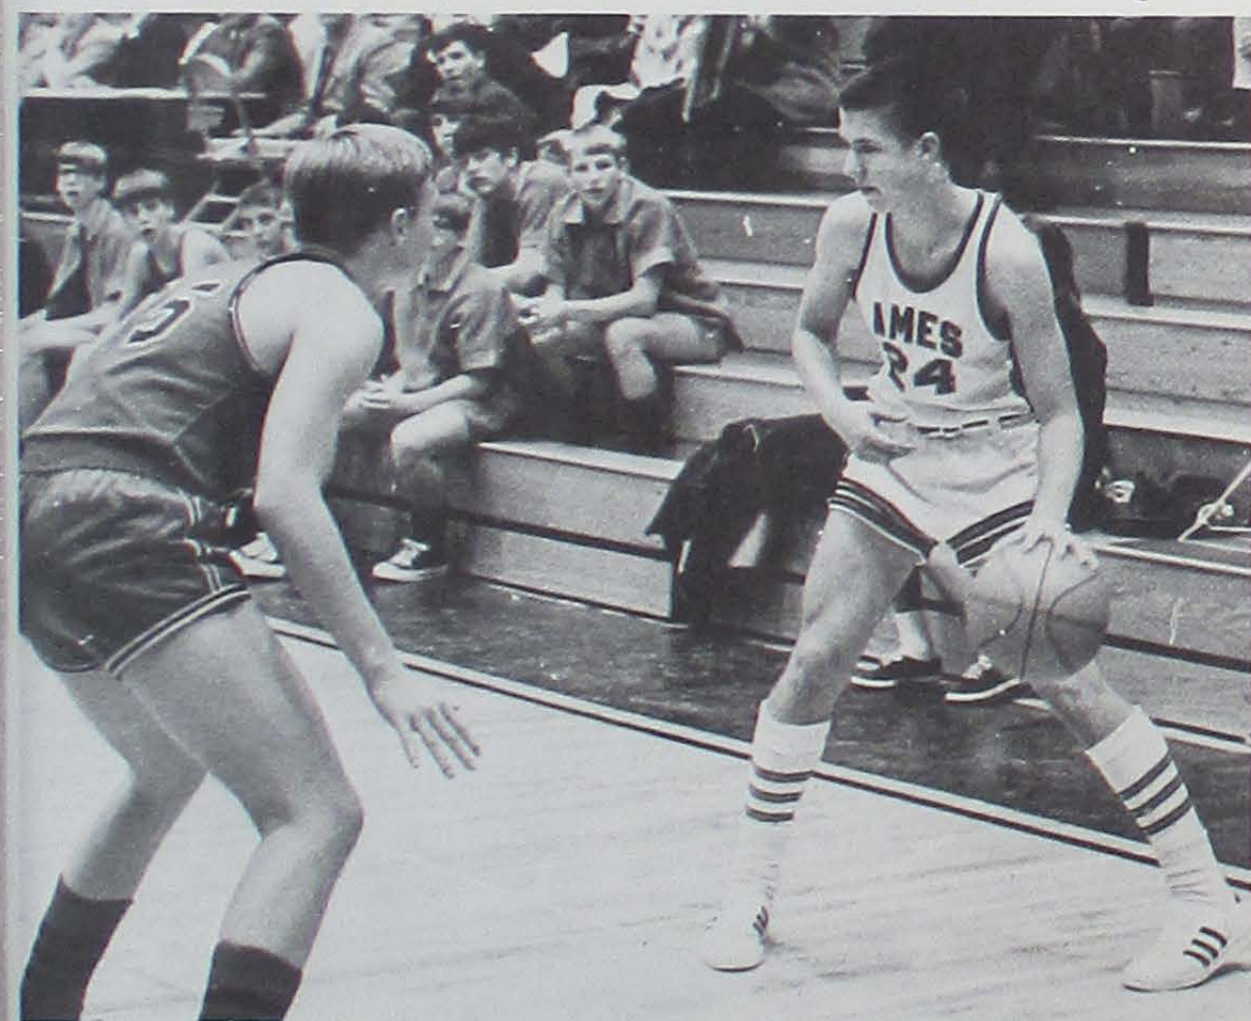

Sophomores ended with a record identical to the varsity's, 14-4 overall and 10-4 in conference play. This left them tied for second in the conference with Marshalltown. East Waterloo sophs came out first, handing Ames two close defeats during the season.

The Little Cyclones were led in scoring and rebounding by Nic Classick, their 6'4" center. Balanced scoring was the key to the Cyclones' victories. The three leading scorers all had averages in the double figures.

Close games were common, eight with a difference of six points or less. The sophs displayed their ability to play well in tight situations. Coach Arnold Zediker's record is now 46-8 for his three years at Ames High.

Disregarding his opponents, Gary Grindeland hits a shot from the inside. Randy Page gets ready to rebound.

Looking to the outside, Gary Grindeland prepares to move the ball to the basket and score. Grindeland had a 13.7 average.

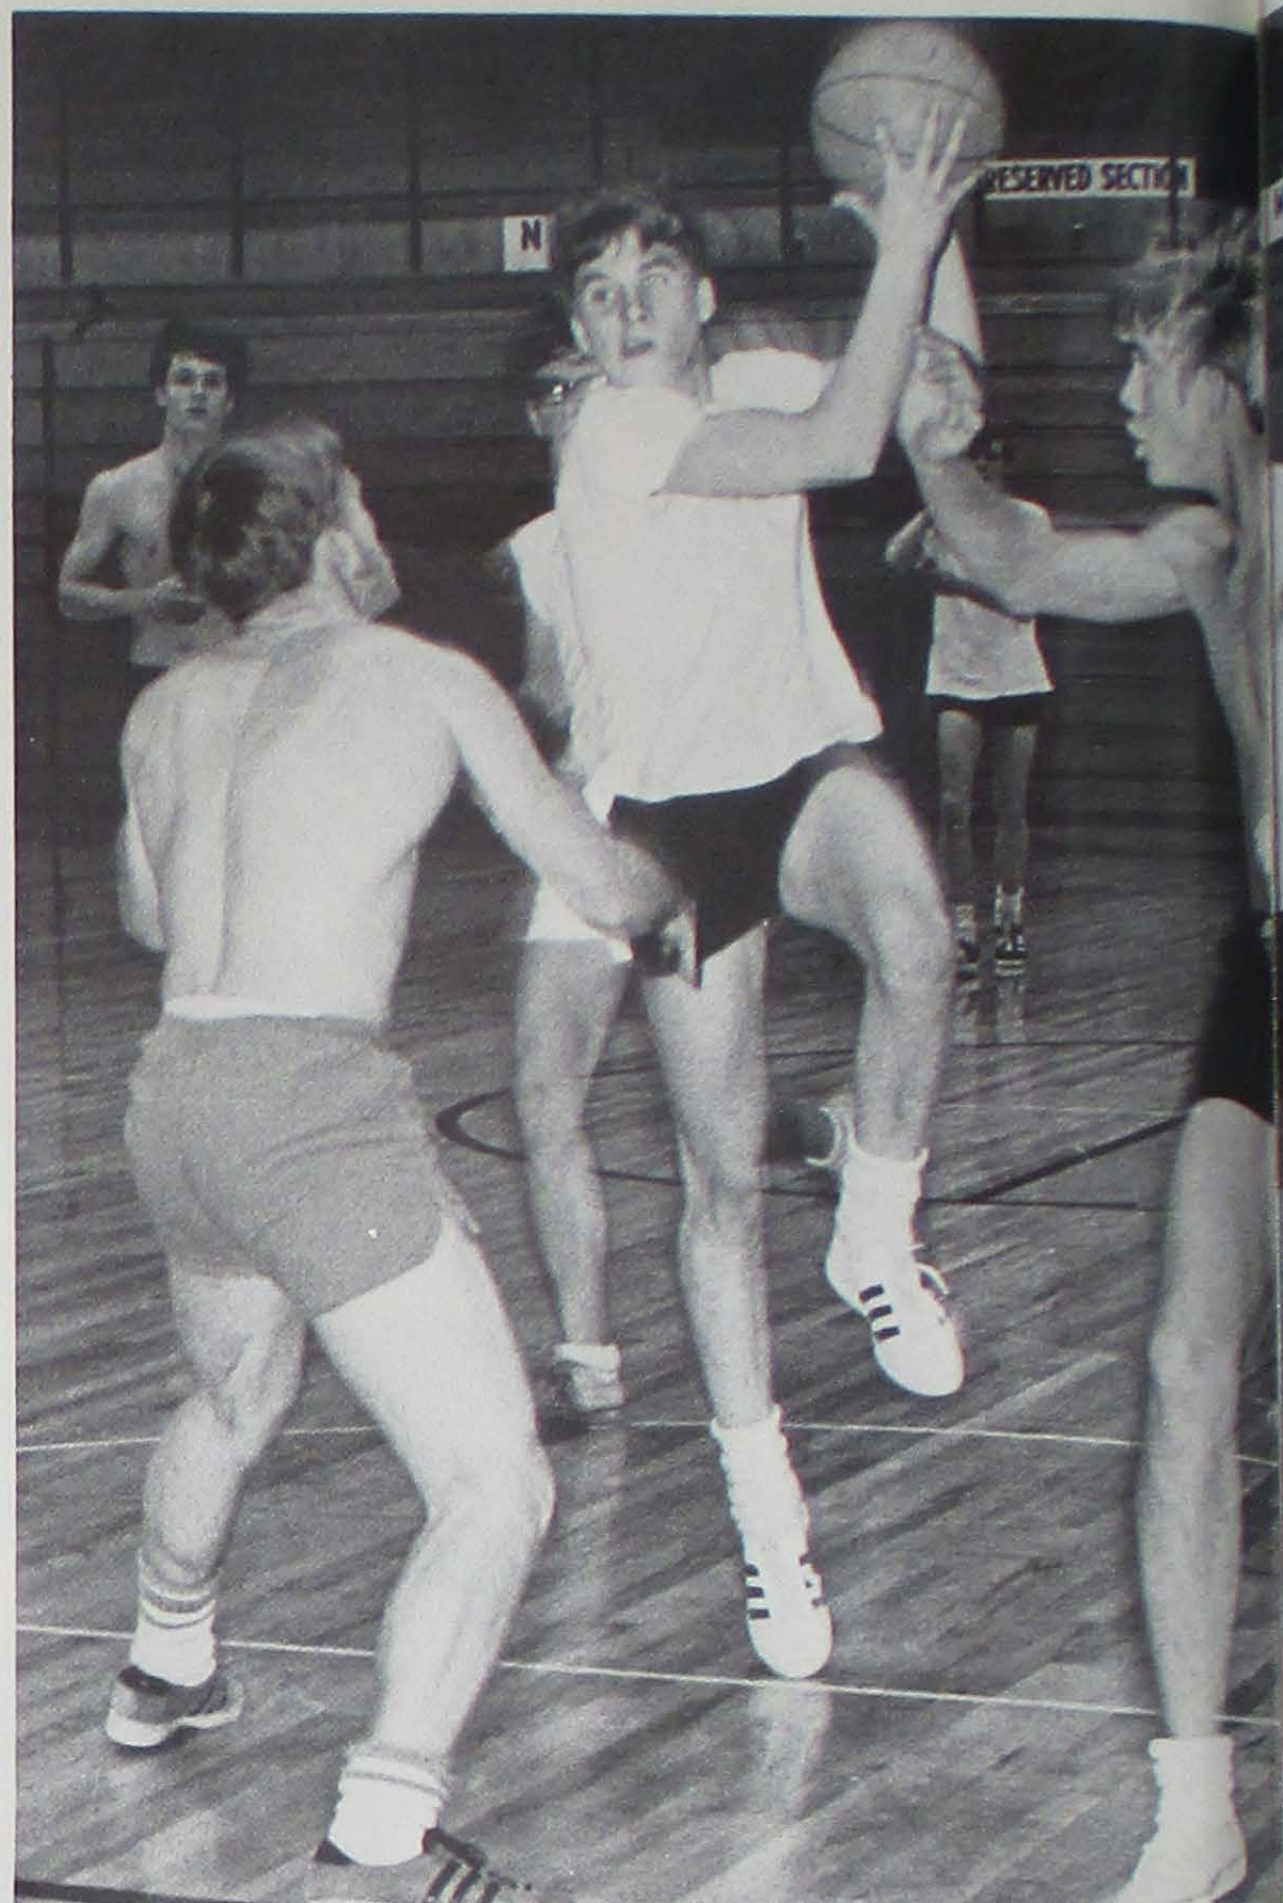

Boys' Intramurals Adds New Sports

This year saw a rise in boys' intramurals participation. When asked what drew the large number of boys this year, Sponsor Roger Spratt explained it simply, "They want competition, and we can give it to them."

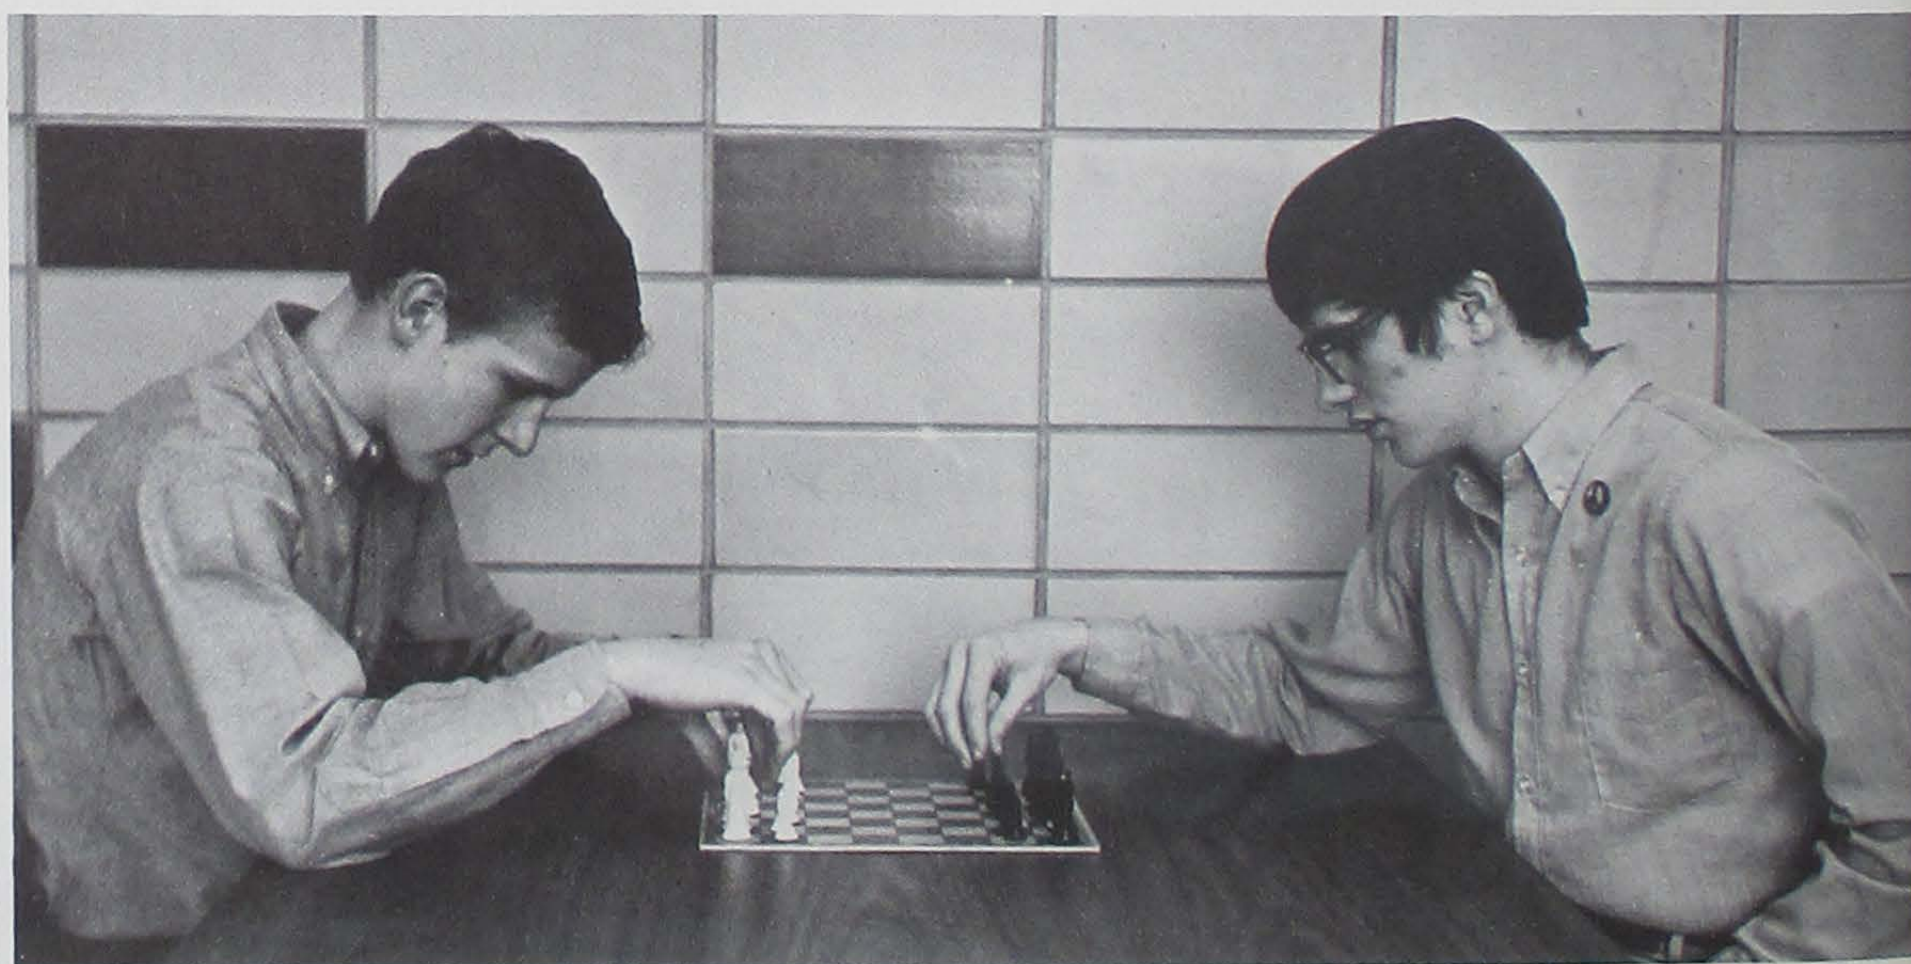

Although football fell through when only half a dozen competitors showed up, the number of basketball participants was higher than any previous year, with more than 100 individuals and 16 teams. Chess and table tennis tournaments also brought strong numbers and fierce competition.

Nearly any boy could find some form of rivalry to suit his pleasure. Enthusiastic interest this year brought the promise of added activities, including swimming, golf, tennis, cross-country, and bowling events.

Fast action and fierce rivalry were the scene at all intramural basketball games held during the winter months.

In a replay of last year's chess tournament, Jim Dickson downed Mark Metzler.

Mr. Covey Retires; 25 Years at A.H.S.

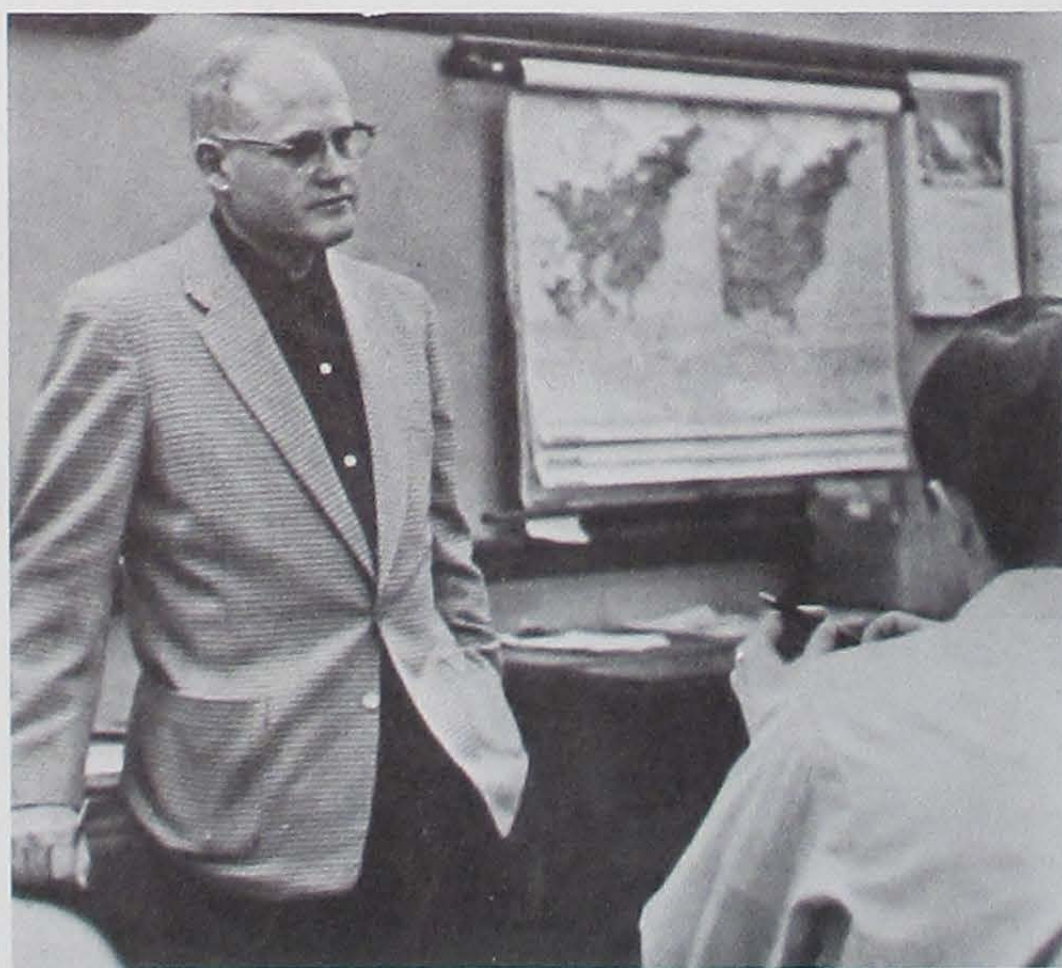

Athletic Director Ray Smalling once stated that one of the best things that ever happened to Ames High track was when Hiram Covey became head coach in 1945. A former state champion in the quarter mile, he was destined to make Ames one of the best and most greatly feared teams in Iowa.

Mr. Covey won his first state championship for Ames in 1949. He went on to win eight more state outdoor titles and nine more indoor titles, resulting in eighteen state championships in twenty-one years. Mr. Covey's teams lost only one district meet and in his last fifteen years the Little Cyclone track team lost, excluding state finals, just three meets. Mr. Covey also was head football line coach at Ames for nineteen years. He was then considered one of the best football coaches in Iowa.

Mr. Covey suffered a stroke in 1964. He returned in 1965, however, and helped with track and study halls. "Hi Covey Appreciation Day" was held in his honor while he was sick.

Born in Oskaloosa, Mr. Covey attended high school there and then went to Penn College, the University of Iowa, Iowa State University, and Minnesota State University. He has a wife, Mildred; two sons, Bob, who was a state champion at Ames in track, football, and basketball; and Ancel, also a track star in the half and quarter mile.

Mr. Covey, who is retiring this year, said that the one thing he will miss most at Ames High is Ames High.

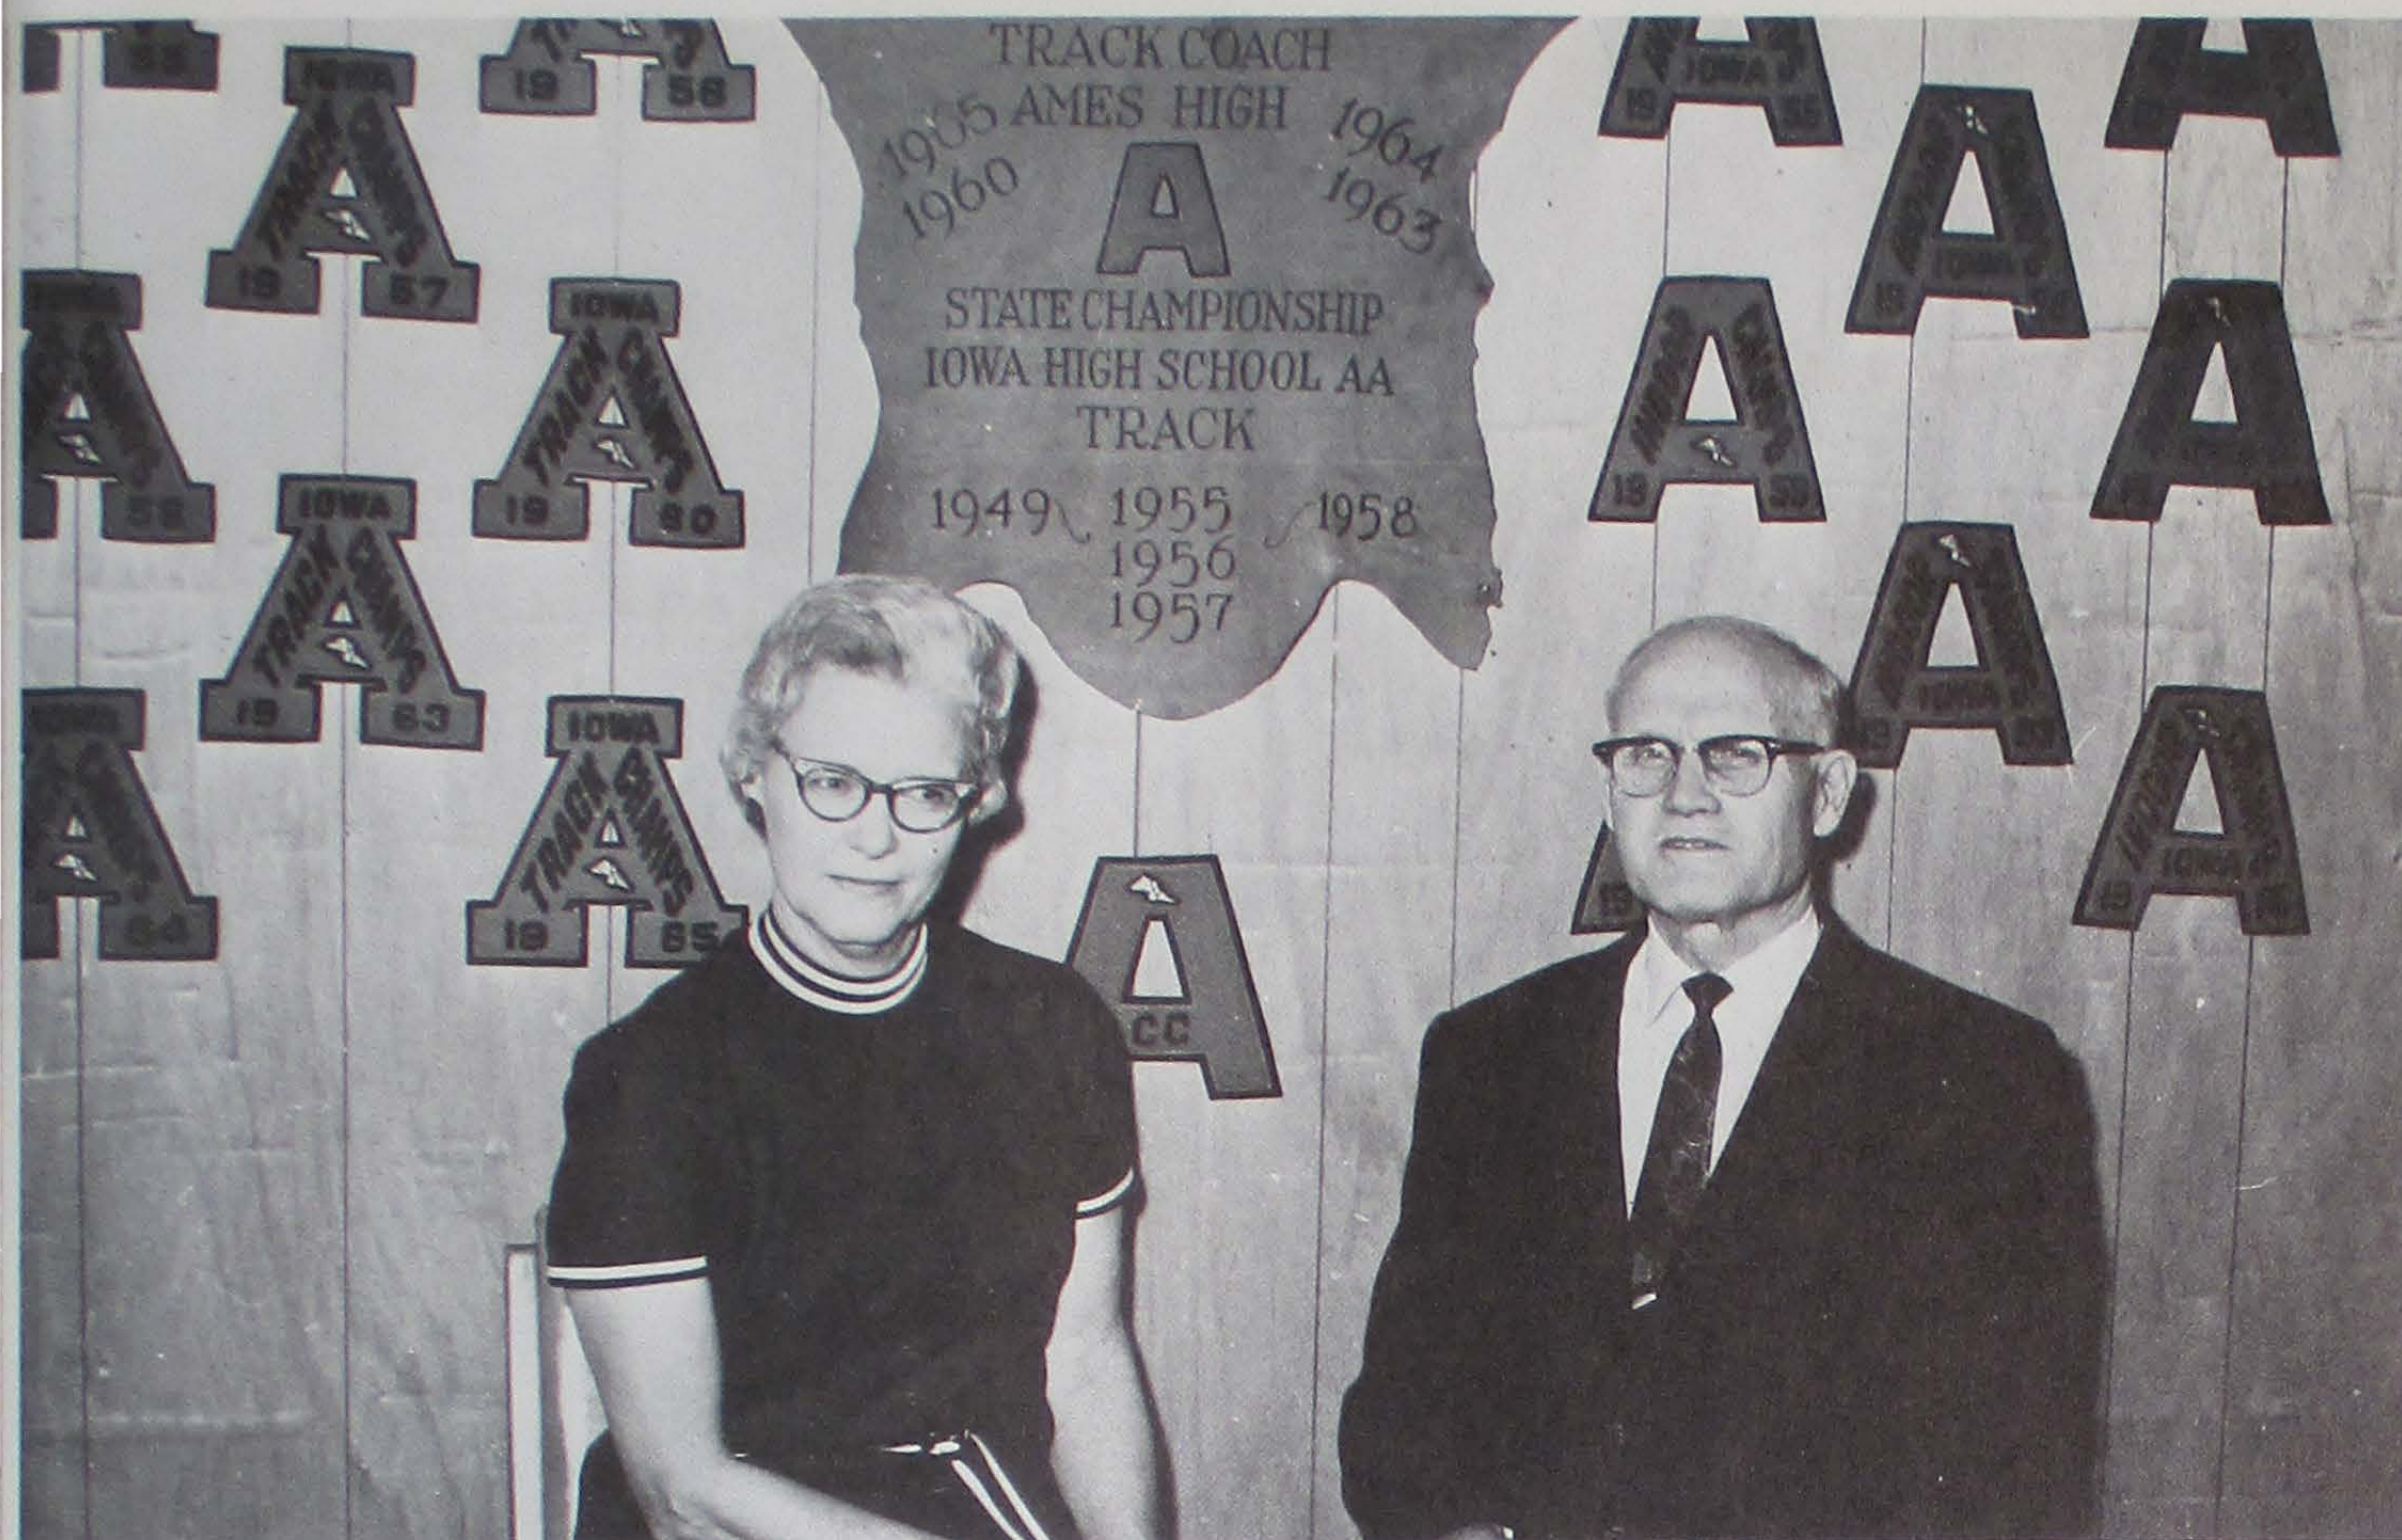

Hi Covey was widely respected throughout the state for his coaching. His appearance has changed little since he came to Ames.

Posing for a well-earned picture is this 1951 medley relay team which captured first place at the Ames Invitational.

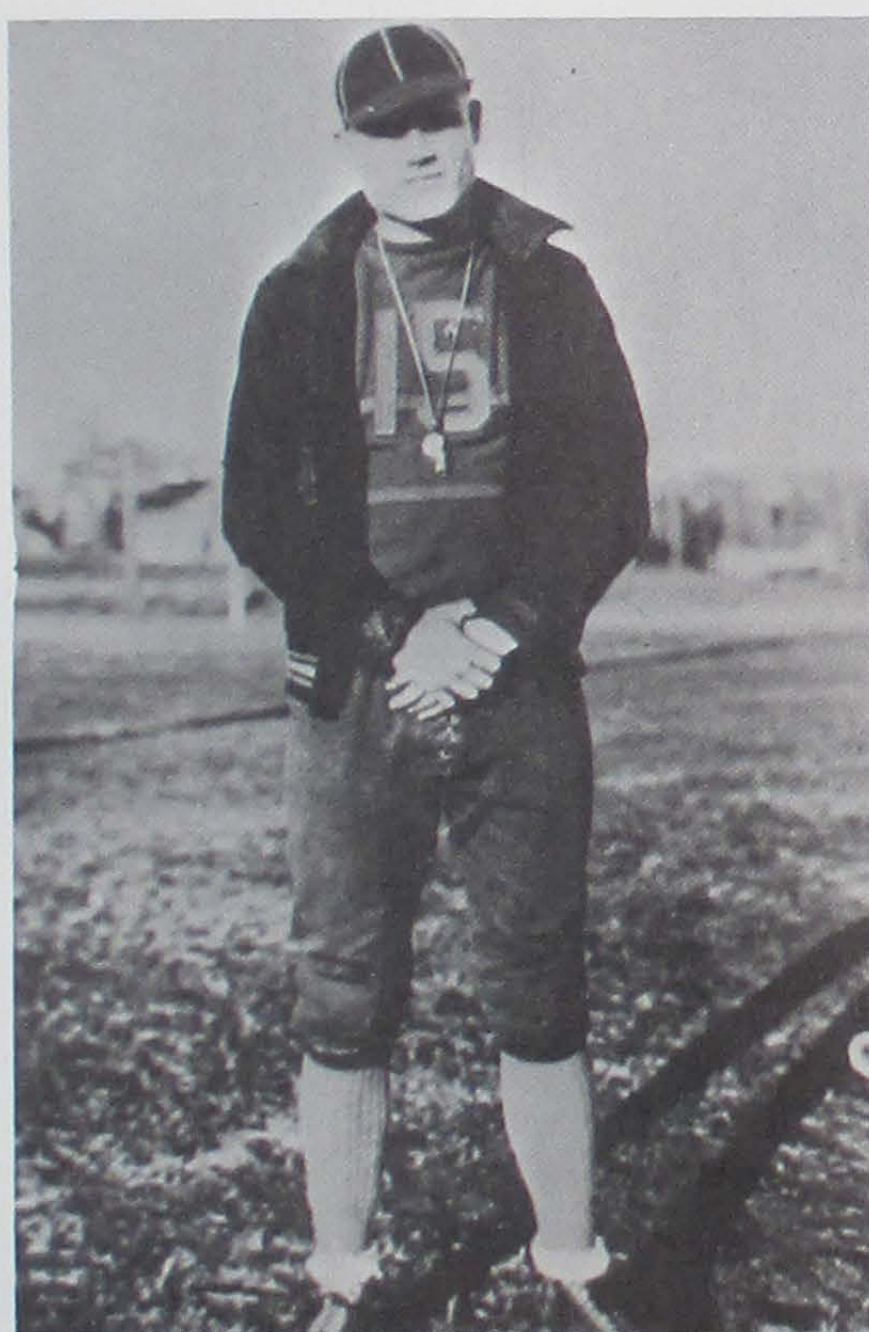

Classroom discussion in a government class draws a look of interest. Mr. Covey taught history and related courses.

Mr. and Mrs. Covey pose before a deerskin plaque, a gift from the Kiwanis. Each letter stands for a state championship.

Track was Ancel Covey's favorite sport.

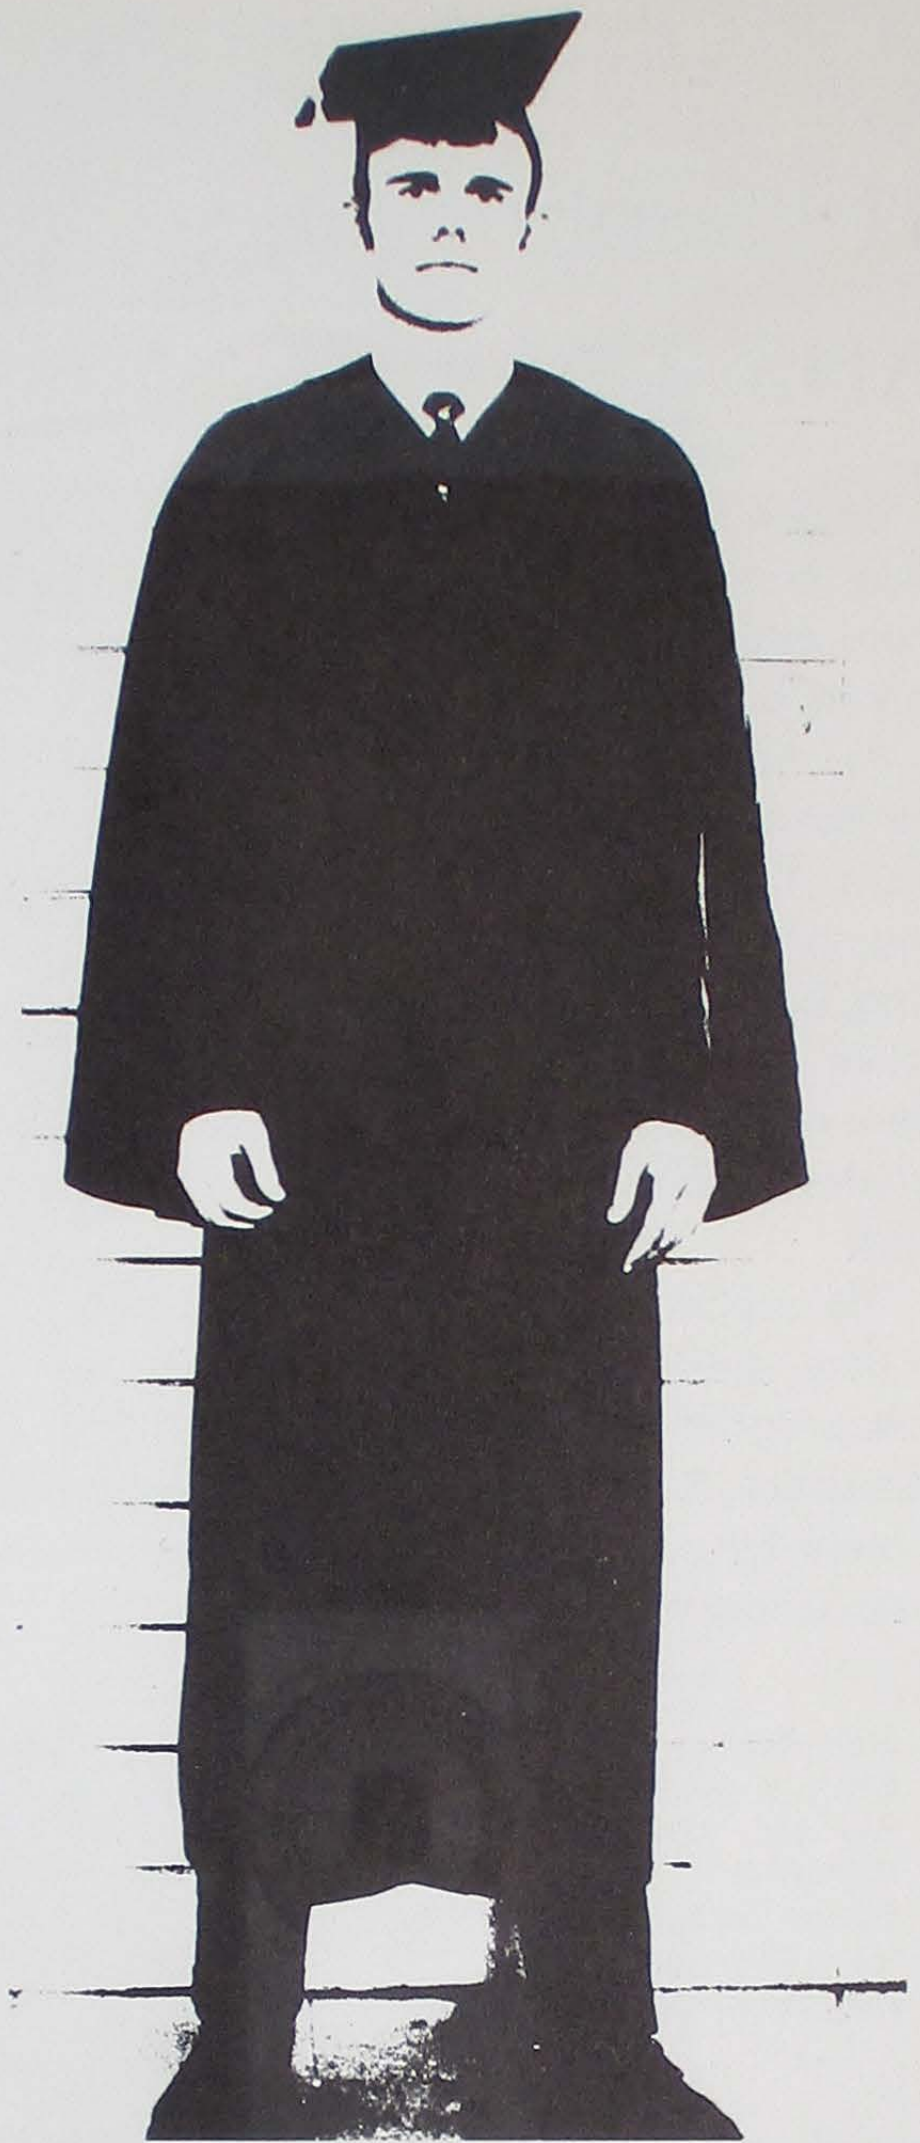

"My first love was football," claimed Mr. Covey, who is dressed and ready for action.

Bob, all-around athlete, excelled in football, basketball, and track.

Classes

419 Sophomores Form AHS' Largest Class

Unique in many respects was the sophomore class introduced to Ames High last fall. At sophomore orientation it was the first class to be welcomed by Ames High's new principal, Dr. Farrar.

As the largest of the three classes with 419 members, it distinguished itself in a number of ways. The sophomores had skilled athletic teams and competed interscholastically in football, wrestling, basketball, track, and swimming. Many were active in drama and musical productions. They were capable students as well, having the highest scholastic average of any class ever entering Ames High.

The sophomores also benefited from a number of new facilities. The new four-phase driver education program was offered both first and second semesters. A completed student lounge provided a place for sophomore students to go before and after school.

Juniors Add Pie Sale To Help Finance Prom

Raising money for the Junior-Senior Prom was the goal of the Junior Executive Council. A new idea this year for making money was a pie sale in the cafeteria. The more traditional ways of money-making also were used: the Homecoming mum sale in October, leaf rakes, printing and sale of the student directories, chili suppers, and the Student-Faculty basketball game and dance in January, this year featuring the "Miss Legs" contest.

In the spring of 1969 the sophomores elected their junior class officers. Bruce Buck was elected president and Tom Schattauer vice president. Beth Moody was elected class secretary and Chuck Walter treasurer. Early this fall representatives were chosen from each junior homeroom to form the Junior Executive Council for the '69-'70 school year.

417 Seniors Anticipate Spring Graduation

Four hundred and seventeen seniors made up Ames High's class of 1970. This was second only to the record number of 421 graduated in 1967. Of the 199 boys and 218 girls, ten were Merit Scholarship semifinalists and 28 received Letters of Commendation.

The Senior Senate, representatives chosen from each homeroom, was in charge of all arrangements for graduation. Through homerooms, members took orders for announcements and name cards, measured students for caps and gowns, and then delivered them before graduation exercises.

They also sponsored the senior class play, "The Crucible," presented April 23-25.

Organizing collections of the senior obligation was another project undertaken by the Senate.

Senior Class President Steve Hibbs was elected by his classmates in the spring of 1969. He is shown in the lounge.

Spirits' Aim — to Show Shape of Things Now

"Ames High moves into the 1970s"—that was our theme. We hoped to capture the feel of this high school moving into a new decade, with a new administration, a new feeling everywhere, changes in curriculum and policies, but more importantly, in students themselves.

The first year of the new decade saw a growing sense of awareness, an effort to protest, to become involved, to speak out. Students wore armbands and buttons; they carried petitions; they put up innumerable posters and scrawled slogans on chalkboards. Some called themselves "The Masked Seniors," others were anonymous—and bitter, or satirical, or just having fun.

Perhaps the most important changes were those that occur every year, as students enter, grow and mature, and prepare to leave. We hope this book reflects all these changes.

A yearbook staff plans a book—and then watches it develop a life of its own. Changes must be caught as they occur, not planned. This is the book that all of you helped shape—the picture of Ames High School as it entered the 1970s.

Graduation Climaxes High School for 405

To some it was the end, to most it was the beginning, but to all of the 405 seniors, graduation was an unforgettable experience. Chosen to speak at graduation, June 8, 1970, were seniors Mary Lou Williams and Jim Bartruff. After receiving their diplomas, the seniors filed out of the Ames High Gym into a new era of their lives.

The night before, baccalaureate services were held in Stephens Auditorium. The Rev. John Davies gave the class sermon at the interfaith service.

Cool, cloudy weather failed to kill the high spirits of the Class of 70's senior picnic on June 4. Golfing, swimming, and plenty of playing around occupied the seniors' time at the Ames Golf and Country Club.

On the eve of May 16, junior and senior couples danced to the magical sounds of the Spartans. The Junior Class sponsored "Aquarius," a banquet at 6 p.m. and a dance at 9 p.m. in the Great Hall of the Union for the Junior-Senior Prom.

As Mary Lou Williams addressed the class, Jim Bartruff, contemplated her words.

With anxious faces and uncertain thoughts in their minds, seniors file into the gym, making last minute changes of their hair, gowns, and cap tassels.

'Crucible,' One-Acts End Mr. Z's Ames Career

Havoc wrought in the lives of innocent people accused by jealous and vengeful girls was the subject of the spring play The Crucible. Arthur Miller's drama of the Salem witchcraft scare was sponsored by the Senior Class. Crews and cast worked nearly six weeks on the last play presented under Mr. Zitzlsperger's direction.

Three students had a chance to display their talents at directing in the One-Acts, which were presented May 25 and 26. June Lokken directed a scene from Shakespeare's lusty comedy Taming of the Shrew. "Xingu," a humorous satire on a women's club, was directed by Debbie Schumann. Phil Riley directed "Death Sends for the Doctor," a mysterious play concerned with medical triumph over death. Eric Weiss was the student producer of the One-Acts.

Turkey Power Triumphs; Chevy, Dan Elected

An exciting but unusual week of campaigning ended in the election of Chevy Demirel and Dan Busch to the offices of president and vice-president of the student council. The other teams were Jim Dickson and Al Vandeventer, Paul Montag and Keith Wessel.

After a week of nomination speeches, poster manufacturing, and button pushing, the candidates appeared before the student body. Platforms were based on ideas of revision of the pass system, formation of a smoking lounge, and auditing of courses. These were laid aside as the real question arose: "Who do you want to represent you?" The students then voted on the candidates of their choice.

As Chevy Demirel and his supporters proceed to the microphone to explain their winning platform, their most loyal fan stole the show.

Cagers Beat Bobcats; Crowned 3rd in State

The 1970 basketball cagers from Ames High proved they were among the elite in the state of Iowa, besides bringing added recognition to Little Cyclone athletics, as they defeated Big Eight rival Marshalltown 52-47 to capture the consolation crown in the state basketball tournament. Unfortunately, the victory came only after a disappointing loss to the Davenport Central Blue Devils who went on to win the championship.

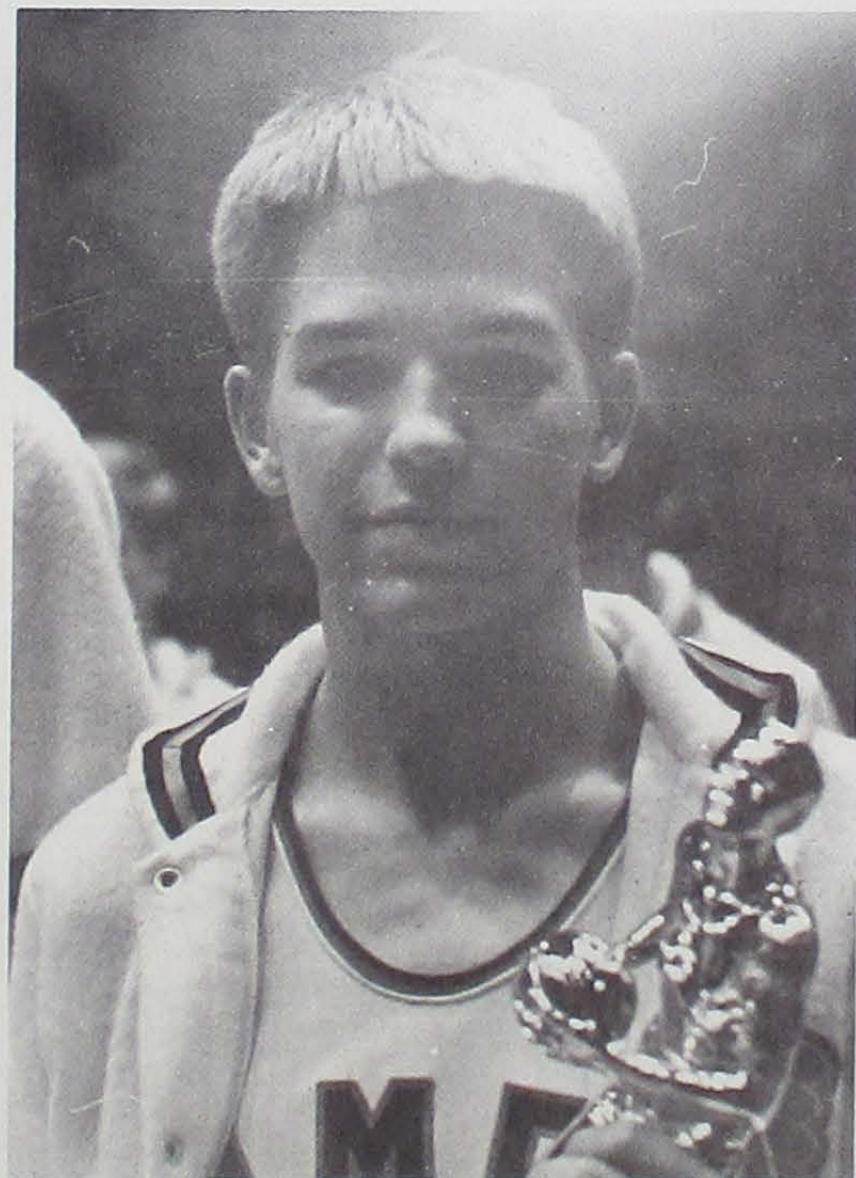

The tournament trail started with easy victories over Boone, 76-40, and Jefferson, 83-40. The Little Cyclones then posted a stunning 88-72 triumph over fifth-ranked Des Moines Hoover, playing to their full potential, according to Coach Duvall. After a come-from-behind effort, Ames defeated Knoxville, 64-51 in the substate final. And in first-round tournament play, good defense and balanced scoring helped the Little Cyclones defeat Council Bluffs Jefferson, 76-57.

Gene Larson was voted on the IDPA All-state third team and Scott Burgason, Tim Linder, and Paul McFarland received honorable mention.

Trackmen Take District; Place 2nd in Big 8

Despite the fact that many people considered this year's Ames track team a little under par compared to previous teams, the Little Cyclone cindermen captured the district championship, took second place in the Big Eight Conference, and placed sixth in the state track meet held here in Ames. The trackmen met similar success during the regular season as they easily captured first place in all three of their major meets.

But placing high in track meets wasn't the only area in which Ames did well. Tom Montag set a new school record in the two-mile run with a time of 9:32.1. Kent Anderson tied the school pole vault record of 13'6" at the Drake Relays. And the 440-yard relay team—Dan Weirson, Steve Jackson, Bill Curry, and Rick Bowlds—tied the school record in that event by winning in the district meet with a time of 43.4 seconds.

With some promising reserves and a total of 31 letter winners returning next year, Coach John Sletten expects a better season in 1971.

Little Cyclones Romp In 1st Hi Covey Relays

The Little Cyclone trackmen got off on the right foot in outdoor competition by winning the first Hi Covey Relays against five other Big Eight teams as they piled up 117 points to 56 $\frac{1}{3}$ by runner-up Mason City. The cindermen won a total of nine events, and in the process set two meet records. Tom Montag won the 2-mile run with a time of 9:48.4, and Tom Polhemus took the shot-put event with a toss of 52 feet and 9 $\frac{1}{2}$ inches. Ames also won the high jump, 120 high hurdles, 100 yard dash, 880 run, and the 440, mile, and 2 mile relays.

The Hi Covey Relays were formerly called the Little Cyclone Relays but the name was changed this year to honor Mr. Hiram Covey, assistant track coach, who is retiring at the end of the 1970 school year. Mr. Covey, head coach for many years, helped build the Ames track program to what it is today.

Golfers 4th in State; Compile 8-2 Record

The Ames High golf team compiled a 8-2 record during regular season competition. The only defeats came at the hands of Boone, which eventually became the state champion. The golfers also took second in both Big Eight and district meets, won sectionals, and placed fourth in state on the road to an overall 31-7 season.

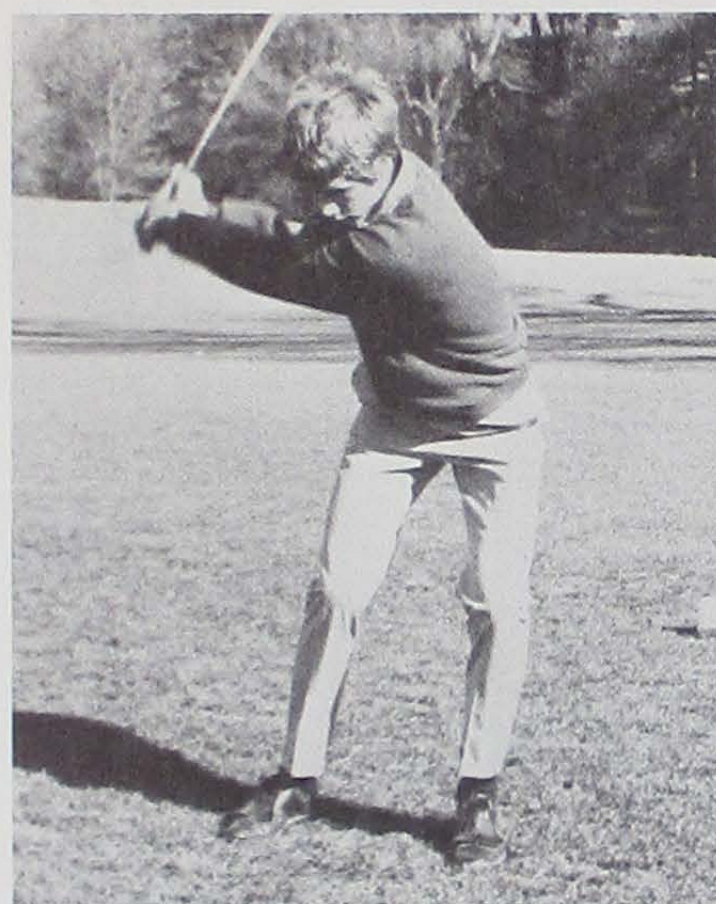

Dean Bakke, Pete Buck, and Maurie Miller were consistent point winners for Ames. Bakke was runner-up medalist in the state while Buck took third. In addition, Buck captured sectional medalist honors, placed second in the Big Eight, and tied for third in districts with Miller.

Tennis Team 4-4-1; Second in Big Eight

Over-all success summoned up the Ames High tennis team as they compiled a respectable 4-4-1 record and placed second in the Big Eight Conference meet. An accumulated record of the points scored by the Little Cyclones and their opponents showed that Ames outscored their opponents 50-36.

Juniors Jim Dickson and Al Vandeventer, who had identical singles records at 9-2, brought added honors to the team by capturing the doubles titles in the Big 8, District, and the Marshalltown Quadrangular. They were defeated in the quarter-finals of the state tournament by the eventual runnerup, Ottumwa.

Other doubles teams to play for Ames were Jim Scott and Ed Seifert and Randy Johnson and Steve Pace.

End Season 16-15; Bat Girls Added

Ames' summer baseball team finished the season with a respectable 16-15 won-lost record. But it was the addition of bat girls with their mini-shorts that made this year's team a little more interesting to talk about compared to other Iowa high school baseball teams. Minus the knowledge a bat boy has, the bat girls went about the Ames dug-out performing the duties of bat boy.

Pretty girls, however, weren't the only accomplishment of the season. Six individual and two team records were set. The team batting average was .238, with Scott Milliken having the highest individual average at .310. At the same time he had a 3.21 ERA in pitching. Scott Burgason had the best earned-run-average at 1.78.

The junior varsity team, coached by Dave Posegate, did just as well as their varsity teammates by posting a 13-5 won-lost record.

Mrs. Whitney Retires After 32 Years

Ames High lost a familiar figure last May when Mrs. Charlotte Whitney retired after thirty-two years of service to the Ames public school system. Besides serving as coordinator of guidance services and director of guidance, she also was a counselor.

Mrs. Whitney earned her B.A. degree at St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn., and an M.S. degree at Iowa State University. She went on to graduate work at the University of Iowa and the University of Minnesota.

As a former journalism teacher who started the WEB, she received many honors in the journalism field. From 1953 to 1955, she served as president of the Iowa Association of Journalism Directors, and from 1954 to 1959 as Iowa director of the National Association of Journalism Directors.

She became a prominent figure in state, county, and city organizations. She served as vice-president of the Iowa Personnel and Guidance Association, as adviser to the Iowa State University YMCA, as president of the Ames branch of the American Association of University Women, as president of the Ames Education Association, and as publicity Chairman for the West Story County Chapter of the American Red Cross. She was named to the Who's Who of American Women.

Well known at Ames for 32 years, Mrs. Whitney has dedicated her life to helping young people.

In appreciation for many years of service, Mrs. Whitney received an opal pin.

At a special banquet honoring retiring faculty, Mrs. Whitney relaxed with her husband before enjoying the dinner.
